5th Annual Relay For Life

Packed track raises $95K

WILMINGTON -- It was mid-day last Friday when the sun broke through the clouds. The rain had stopped, and the skies now welcomed the fifth annual Relay For Life of Wilmington with open arms. Committee members and volunteers eagerly decorated the Shawsheen Valley Technical High School track in preparation for the 31 teams and hundreds of visitors who would join them. Opening ceremonies set the stage for a night of celebration and remembering. This year's Relay raised $95,000 to fight back against cancer, bringing Wilmington's total to an impressive $706,000.

After welcome remarks by American Cancer Society and local committee representatives, Town Manager Jeff Hull summed up what Relay is all about. "We've all been touched by cancer," he remarked. He thanked participants for their dedication to fighting back against the disease and helping to support research and patient services for all those affected.

Immediately following the opening ceremony was the survivor ceremony. Jeanette Tighe was the featured speaker. Her words were meaningful and strong as she told the crowd her inspiring story of fighting back and surviving cancer. Surrounded by past speakers, she and the other honored survivors took to the track to start off Relay with their traditional walk around the field.

Music filled the air, and the fun began. Supporters lined the sides of track. They cheered and clapped as the survivors passed. A group of young children stood on the side and gave high-fives to their hero Cathy Cook, a 10-year survivor, as she laughed and smiled with them. "It's still emotional," she shared with others around her enjoying the moment too. The children would break into a run after she passed, and then wait for her again a bit farther

Wilmington Farmers Market Returns

Delicious Food and Community

BY DAN HALL
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON -- The Wilmington Farmers Market—which is open every Sunday on the old Swain School field, across from the High School—has returned for another year of delicious local food and community building. The farmers market features foods from many area towns, including Medford, Dracut, Tyngsboro, Somerville, and of course, Wilmington. The types of food and produce available range from fresh grown greens and fruits to meats and even a local Wilmington ground coffee stand.

The season runs from June 16th to September 24th, and every Sunday will bring a new form of entertainment and community building along with all the fresh locally grown produce, says board member Cathy Ober. Cathy went on to say that this event provides "A great opportunity for Wilmington to come together, to eat more healthfully, build community and buy locally." She further stated that the pollution that would be eliminated by buying locally grown foods as opposed to foods from big box

Fun on the Fourth – family style

BY CATHERINE FRANCIS
Special to the Crier

WILMINGTON - In about two weeks from today, the celebration of Uncle Sam's birthday begins. For families, knowing that their hometown really rolls out the red carpet for fun makes enjoying, and planning, for the weeklong festivities a breeze.

"As you already know, there is no carnival at Wilmington," said Scott Garrant, President of the Fourth of July committee. However, coordinators have plenty of events in store for a fantastic celebration this year. "Come on down and have a great time with your family."

How is one supposed to have a great time if there is no carnival? Well, Garrant and the Fourth of July Committee have set up numerous events throughout the week, beginning June 29 through July 6, for fans of the Fourth to enjoy. Some require pre-registration - particularly the hospital bed race.

Much of the population is spending the Fourth of July away from home. Some people are traveling to see the in-laws, others to a Cape escape, or perhaps a bit of both. When you live in Wilmington though, paying for gas seems foolish when the best of community events will happen right here. When Business Week magazine named Wilmington the Best Affordable Suburb in Massachusetts, the editors cited the Fun on the Fourth celebration as one of the town's strengths with something for everyone. Need to cool off? Wilmington has a water balloon toss and a bucket brigade on the 4th. Feeling hungry? During the Fourth activities, local organizations offer a plethora of choices for breakfasts and dinners. For the more competitive folks, try a blueberry pie-eating contest on July 3, or perhaps grab some roast beef from the Knights of Columbus on the 4th.

The number one event that parents (and kids) look forward to is family day, this year falling on July 4th. Of course, there is a family fireworks display beginning at 9 pm, which everyone enjoys while sitting on blankets on the warm grass. But the day gets started early with a $5 breakfast provided by Local Heroes at seven am, followed by wiffle ball, face painting, and the baby crawl (must be under 12 months of age). There are even three-legged races, tug of wars, clowns, kid characters, doll carriage and bike parades, a wheelbarrow race, and a hula-hoop contest. For lunch, the Wilmington Community Fund provides those with a $4 donation a hot dog, potato chips, desserts and a drink.

However, on Family Day, wait until 4pm after the activities to set up your chairs and blankets on the Town Common. Animals, other than service dogs, have to stay home. Families, especially with young children, can enjoy the 9 PM fireworks, and come back Saturday night for the Spectacular Fireworks show beginning at 9:30 PM.

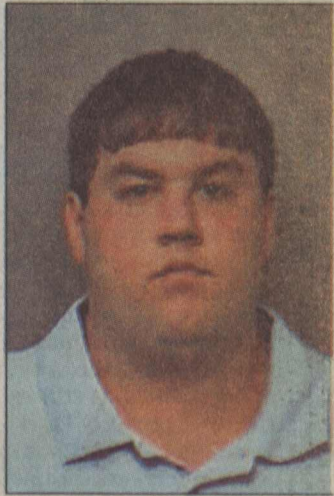

Go to funonthefourth.com in order to register for certain events. The winner gets bragging rights for an entire year! As Scott Garrant had said, have a great time with your family. Let the memories begin!

Wilmington History - 130 years ago

Susan Walker - A woman beyond her time

BY LARZ F. NEILSON

Susan Walker was a most remarkable woman. She was celebrated as a philanthropist, politician, mathematician, and "strong minded" woman. She lived in an era when women wielded little political power, but she had friends in the highest areas of the United States government.

The Walker family is one of Wilmington's oldest. In the very early 1800's, Benjamin and Susanna Walker had six children, five boys and a girl. Susan Walker was born on February 14, 1811 in a farmhouse on Shawsheen Avenue in Wilmington to Benjamin and Susanna (Cook) Walker. Her father died when she was three months old. Four years later, her mother married Otis Kendall, with whom she had two children.

Her grandfather was Capt. Timothy Walker, who led the Wilmington Militia on Concord Day, 1775.

Two of her brothers rose to distinguished careers, as did a half-brother. Susan was equally brilliant. Timothy Walker and Sears Cook Walker both graduated from Harvard about 1825. Timothy taught school and published a textbook on geometry. He then became a lawyer, went west and founded a law school in Cincinnati, Ohio. Sears undertook a career in astronomy and mathematics in Philadelphia and Washington, D.C. Ezra Otis Kendall became a mathematics professor at the University of Pennsylvania.

Her obituary said nothing about Susan Walker's education, other than to say she was very well educated. She was employed at the U.S. Coast Survey, working with her brother Sears, an eminent astronomer. She was a computer, performing seemingly endless mathematical calculations that made his work possible.

But that was hardly the extent of her career. She was active in the highest levels of government in Washington in the years leading up to and during the Civil War. She was a fervent abolitionist and an advocate for the education of freed slaves.

She lived in an amazing era that saw tremendous exploration and development, both geographic and scientific. She was born eight years after the Louisiana Purchase, and almost 20 years before the first railroads. She lived through the Civil War and reconstruction.

The 1830's saw a westward movement in the still young nation, and Cincinnati, Ohio became a hub. When Timothy Walker left Massachusetts, he settled in Cincinnati.

Timothy Walker's presence in Ohio was very strong. He founded the first law school west of the Allegheny Mountains, only the third in the young nation.

Through her brother, Susan Walker met Salmon P. Chase.

Chase rose to prominence during rioting in Cincinnati in 1836. He became the state attorney general, later a U.S. senator, then governor. In 1861, Abraham Lincoln appointed him as secretary of the treasury. He later became Chief Justice.

There were two positions that Chase wanted very badly, and that he could not have — President of the United States and husband of Susan Walker. He asked her for her hand in marriage not once but three times. And all three times, she turned him down, preferring to maintain a platonic relationship.

Chase is the man for whom the Chase Manhattan bank was named, although he was never associated with the bank.

Sears Cook Walker and Timothy Walker both died in the early 1850's. Susan carried on, working with abolitionists. She traveled to Paris, France in 1858 where she aided in the recuperation of Sen. Charles Sumner. Sumner had been attacked in the Senate chamber, with a walking stick by South Carolina Representative Preston S. Brooks in retaliation for Sumner's speech regarding the 1854 Kansas-Nebraska Act. It would take Sumner three years to fully recuperate and resume his duties as Senator.

In March 1862, shortly after the Civil War began, Walker sailed to South Carolina on the ship Atlantic with 42 other people to work on the Port Royal experiment. Many of the party were from a New York social action group. Walker and two companions were representing Secretary Chase.

At the onset of the war, many residents of the area around Hilton Head, S.C. fled their plantations. About 10,000 slaves were left behind. The Port Royal experiment was designed to work with the freed slaves, to provide aid and to teach them to be self-reliant and productive.

Walker kept a journal for the three months she was there. It tells of a spartan life in plantation mansions with very few resources. The journal was published 50 years later in Ohio. She also sent reports to Chase and other officials, conducting a very busy correspondence for the entire period. She returned to Washington in June 1862. The Port Royal experiment lasted through the entire war and was finally terminated in 1865 by President Andrew Johnson.

In Washington, she established "Brewster Cottage," a female industrial school for freed slaves. There were also many conferences held there on the policies of caring for and educating freed women.

She had some money, which was managed by Charles Keble, the son of Timothy Walker's law partner. In 1887, she learned that he had squandered the remaining funds. Keble also drove Antioch College to the verge of ruin and had then committed suicide. She became so distraught over this that she died about two weeks later, on Dec. 13, 1887.

The list of friends in her obituary included cabinet officials, members of Congress, governors and others, with whom she held frequent consultations. Among them were Charles Seward, Secretary of State; Sen. Sumner; Rep. Owen Lovejoy, who was Lincoln's closest ally in the House; William Lloyd Garrison and Horace Greeley, publisher of the New York Tribune.

2013 Summer Season at The Wilmington Town Museum

BY SHARON ADELMAN CROWLEY
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON - Sunday, July 14, visit the Wilmington Town Museum at the Colonel Joshua Harnden Tavern between 2 - 4 p.m. for their annual open house.

A Wilmington tradition for 30 years, the museum, housed in a historic Georgian tavern, will offer free tours. The building is named for its first occupant in 1770, Colonel Joshua Harnden, who occupied the home with his wife Sarah and their six children. After serving in the Revolutionary War, Harnden opened his home to the public as a tavern which offered lodging to travelers and served as a meeting place for the public.

Throughout the summer, the tavern will host weekly "Brown Bag Lunch & Games" so visitors can enjoy the grounds with a picnic lunch and old-fashioned outdoor games such as badminton, cup and ball, and hoop toss. The event will be held every Friday from July 12 through August 2, noon - 2 p.m., weather permitting.

Museum tours take place on Thursdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. Take a glimpse into the tavern's rich history and discover what life was like in Wilmington, Massachusetts over 200 years ago.

The adjacent carriage house will be open most Sundays during the summer for visitors to explore agricultural tools and replicas of colonial flags.

Museum tours are always free. The Town Museum at the Harnden Tavern is located at 430 Salem Street in Wilmington. For more information, contact Museum Curator, Terry McDermott: 978-658-5475 or e-mail htavern@town.wilmington.ma.us

Kids' scavenger hunt at farmers market

WILMINGTON - This Sunday, June 23, the Wilmington Farmers Market Kids Tent will be featuring a scavenger hunt, geared towards the market. Kids participating might just have to find out if anyone is selling a "stone fruit" or an herb that begins with "b". Complete the scavenger hunt and turn it in at the Market Table for a prize (most likely some delicious strawberries!)

The vendor line-up includes Farmer Dave, Gauoette Farm, Seafood Express, Lawton Family Farm featuring grass-fed beef and Foxboro Cheese products, Turnpike Street Jams, fresh pasta by Flor D'Italia, roasted coffee

beans by 27 West, Let's Get Baked breads, Mizz Megzz cupcakes, and candles and soaps by Kittredge Candles - check out some of their more unusual scents like bacon, grass, or dirt!

Wilmington Farmers Market is open Sundays, 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., through September 29 (closed July 7th for Fun on the Fourth) on the Swain Green, across from Town Common. We are online at www.wilmingtonfarmers-market.com, www.facebook.com/WFMA2, pinterest.com/wfma2 and tweet from @WFMA2.

Miceli: Obamacare forcing health providers to cut costs

BY JON BISHOP
Crier Correspondent

BURLINGTON — On Friday, June 7, local officials including State Senator Barry Finegold and State Representatives Jen Benson, Ken Donnelly, and James Miceli joined Lahey Health Chief Executive Officer Dr. Howard Grant and other executives at Lahey Hospital & Medical Center in Burlington for a discussion on Lahey's history and status as a high-quality, low-cost care provider.

The Crier spoke with Representative Jim Miceli and asked for his reflections on the event.

"Very informative meeting. Very good message delivered. Impressive," he said. "By and large, it was a good meeting, an excellent meeting."

Miceli said that Lahey competes with hospitals in Boston but offers an attractive alternative because of its low cost and proximity to Wilmington and Tewksbury. Particularly with regard to low cost, Miceli thinks residents may see more.

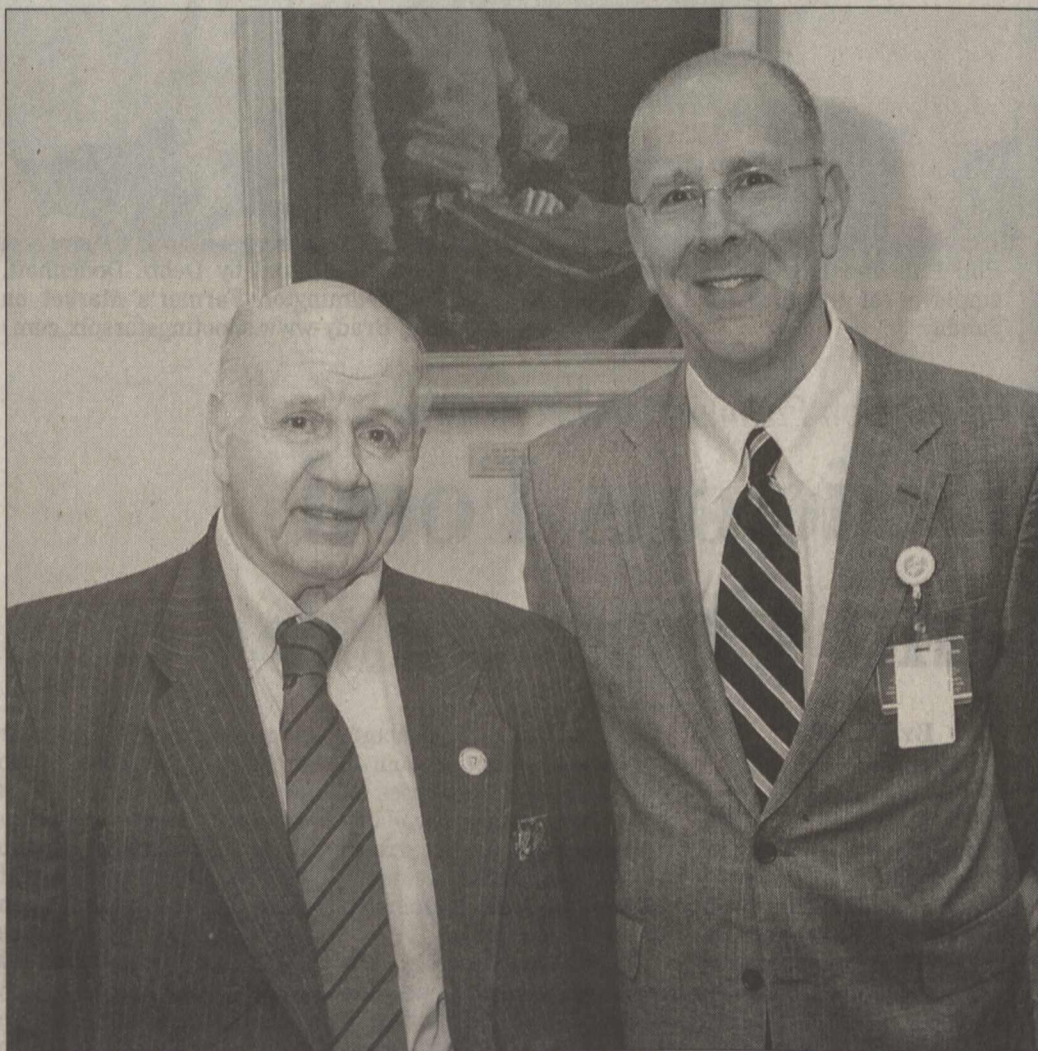

"Good or bad, the cost containment bill put out by the legislature and Obamacare have really motivated most of the hospitals to work toward a collaboration in order to give excellent care, but, at the same time, start saving money," he said.

"And the hospitals have looked toward collaborating, merging—things of that nature—and Lahey is no different than anyone else," he added.

He stressed that fact that the hospitals in this area are "no different than anyone else in the industry."

Miceli, who said that he has "always been involved with the hospitals" in his area, praised Lahey Clinic for reaching out to legislators.

Lahey, in addition to other hospitals in the district, have "outstanding" administrators, he said.

It's Your Money

ABOUT REVERSE MORTGAGES

Senior citizens who want to stay in their home and need a stream of income may find a reverse mortgage an attractive option. Instead of having to pay a mortgage, a reverse mortgage pays the homeowner, either as a monthly payment, a line of credit, or a lump sum. It doesn't have to be paid until the homeowner sells, moves out for 12 months or dies. Sounds terrific. But these loans are expensive. There's a 2-percent insurance premium on the full value of the house, no matter how much you borrow, to guarantee that you'll get the loan advances. There are also origination fees, closing costs, interest and servicing fees that can be high.

The homeowner is still expected to pay insurance, maintenance and property taxes. Worse yet, some borrowers have chosen to put the reverse mortgage in the name of the older spouse to increase income; when that spouse dies, the other may become homeless.

Many money questions call for expert answers. That's why folks come to the finance experts at

Letters to the editor

'All-Night Long' thanks donors, volunteers

Dear Editor,
Following the TMHS Graduation on June 7th, the 17th annual All Night Long Graduation party was held for the entire graduating class.

The graduates were entertained from 10pm until 5am at a substance free, fully chaperoned party completely sponsored by fundraising efforts of the committee and donations from many local businesses and families.

It took an army of volunteers to plan, decorate, chaperone, and clean up to pull off an event of this magnitude.

This great night included themed areas, games, a casino, and a gym full of inflatable games including an obstacle course and mechanical bull. Food donated by local restaurants was provided throughout the evening. The night ended with raffle prizes and a hypnotist show, which is always a huge hit.

To the Tewksbury community, thank you for your support of this great event.

To the volunteers, you know this can't happen without each and every one of you. Thank you for your time.

To the graduates.... Congratulations and good luck! Please stay safe.

Thank you,
The All Night Long Graduation Committee
Donna Lizotte and Joanne Foley, co-chairs

The following businesses and organizations generously donated money, food or services. Without their help and support, this great event would not have been possible.

services throughout the summer months. Without reliable and consistent support from the Lions, and other civic organizations, the pantry would not be able to meet the monthly food supply needs of those we serve. What's your number?

by Scott Mullooney

They say age is just a number. This month, my number is fifty-five. I'm not sure if "55" counts as a landmark birthday, but as I approach this personal milestone I must stop and reflect. Fifty-five years old once meant you were over the hill - until my generation decided we were not going to fade quietly into the twilight of old age.

The younger generation isn't too happy about us old folks not moving on. Our children have never been able to claim their right as leaders in the forefront of society because we "fifty-some-things" and "sixty-some-things" refuse to hand over the reigns and move aside. It's hard for this new generation to make a name for themselves when many of them are still living in their parent's basements and attics.

At age fifty-five, I am a member of an elite group of pop culture royalty who were all born the same year. There must have been something in the water in 1958. People celebrating fifty-fifth birthdays this year include Madonna, Prince, Michael Jackson...and myself. Aside from the untimely, tragic death of Michael Jackson, the rest of this group is still going strong. (Prince's hip replacement doesn't make him any less hip. And Madonna needs help getting up on the stage from time to time, but once she starts moving there's no stopping her. I'm able to shrug off occasional twinges of joint pain and back spasms and afternoon exhaustion when these signs of aging try to make their presence known. You're as young as you feel, I remind myself (when I remember to).)

My generation won't be painted into an ageist corner no matter how hard contemporary society tries to tell us we are no longer relevant. Everyone you see on television is in his or her mid-twenties and good-looking but that doesn't faze us baby-boomers. We choose to ignore marketing's youth-oriented subliminal messages. It's noticeable when the game show "Survivor" throws in a token "old" person every season (and they are always the first person voted off the island). The "oldies" radio station is now playing disco music from the seventies, which wasn't really that long ago. I prefer music from the eighties anyway. "Doesn't anybody do the 80's Robot on the dance floor anymore?" I asked a group of my son's twenty-something friends at a family gathering a few weeks ago. The answer was a resounding "No!" Well, I know someone who does, but I won't unveil my moves until my son's upcoming wedding. I'm sure the video will go viral on YouTube.

And that's what keeps us older folks young - our refusal to give up and give in. My generation can still wear t-shirts and jeans. We can still rock and roll. The Rolling Stones have been together for fifty-plus years and judging from the reviews of their recent live concerts, they haven't lost their edge (as long as the audience doesn't catch a glimpse of Mick Jagger's oxygen tank backstage).

During a recent interview, Madonna summed up my thoughts on aging perfectly. The interviewer said to her, "You look great for fifty-five." Madonna answered, "Just because you have a preconceived notion of what I should look like at this age doesn't mean I have to conform to your stereotype. Maybe this is what fifty-five is supposed to look like." I was impressed. That answer was so much better than a passive "thank you".

I will keep plugging away at life feeling like a young man half my age. I won't be daunted by graying hair or aching muscles. I won't let the fact that if I remortgage my house for fifteen short years I'll be seventy when it's paid off (although that fact sent a momentary chill up my aging spine). I'll stay young by doing what I've always done, and I won't stop because society says I should.

I sincerely hope that "eighty is the new forty", because at fifty-five, I still have a lot to do before I turn thirty (mentally). Darn it, now I can't remember if I took my pills.

A Rotten Bacon Behemoth

by Wenonah Hauter

If a Chinese company's bid to acquire Smithfield goes through, consumers and farmers will suffer.

American consumers may not even notice the change if a newly proposed takeover by China's largest meat processor of our nation's leading pork company goes through. But the $4.7 billion transaction would certainly show up on our plates: in the form of farmer exploitation, more factory farms, and a more complicated supply chain that increases the risk of food contamination.

We should all be leery of deals like Shuanghui International Holdings Ltd.'s proposed purchase of Smithfield Foods Inc. They further consolidate our food system, which is already dominated by a mere handful of Big Ag players. And when these cross-border corporate takeovers involve companies with a history of food safety problems and countries with abysmal track records for food and worker safety, our government should refuse to let them go forward.

Putting profits above people is a cross-cultural problem. Smithfield owns more hogs than the next eight largest U.S. hog producers combined. It slaughters more hogs than any other company in the world and the company has a growing stranglehold over U.S. farmers, who have fewer options for selling their hogs at the market and are prey to abusive contractors from processors like Smithfield.

In fact, Shuanghui, which is partially owned by Goldman Sachs, grew into China's biggest meat company by adopting the industrialized factory farm model that American companies like Smithfield pioneered. The meat industry's merger mania in recent decades has produced more U.S. factory farms. Nearly all of our hogs are now raised in operations that cram more than 2,000 animals into tight quarters. We may export much of this pork, but we keep all those millions of gallons of manure right here at home, often in hog-heavy North Carolina and Iowa.

This deal is also bad for consumers. In the long term, Shuanghui may decide to offshore hog operations to China. If that happens, the United States could wind up importing the pork it once produced.

The Obama administration is pushing new trade deals with Europe and Pacific Rim partners, which China has also expressed interest in joining. These deals promote transnational megamergers like the Smithfield purchase as much as they promote exports. And behind closed doors, negotiators weaken food safety and environmental standards.

Consumers also suffer from this consolidation of our food system, as the massive egg recall of 2010 - that involved half a billion eggs from Iowa factory farms - demonstrated. With just a few players producing most of what we eat, food safety problems on even a few factory farms can end up in kitchens across the globe.

In 2011, Shuanghui was embroiled in a food safety scandal for producing and selling pork laced with the banned veterinary drug clenbuterol, which is linked to serious human health risks. Foreign ownership can only complicate and shield potential future food safety problems from U.S. oversight.

These deals just benefit executives and bankers - not the rest of us.

Local Lions make big donation to pantry

Dear Editor:
The Tewksbury Community Pantry board of directors wants to express its appreciation to the Tewksbury Lions' Club for their most recent $5,000.00 donation. The Lions have been quietly supporting the Tewksbury Community Pantry for over a decade. Their support to date has been over $45,000 dollars. The donation comes at a time when the pantry traditionally experiences a fall off in donations, but the needs of the Pantry continue. The Lions' timely support is always appreciated and helps the pantry provide services throughout the summer months. Without reliable and consistent support from the Lions, and other civic organizations, the pantry would not be able to meet the monthly food supply needs of those we serve. The pantry is pleased to consider the Tewksbury Lions' Club a partner in our ongoing effort to assist those less fortunate in Tewksbury and we are most grateful for their most recent donation.

Sincerely,
Ray Bowden
Tewksbury Community Pantry

Foxwoods trip July 8; Country Western Dance July 12; Yard sale July 20

Those Seniors who participate in Monday exercise classes are reminded that there will NOT be any classes held on Monday the 24th except for the two Bone Builders classes which will be held in the crafts room. On Tuesday, June 25th, State Election day, all classes and Zingo have been cancelled.

The DJ Jon Mansfield afternoon dance, booked prior to the knowledge of the elections, WILL be held next Monday 24th as scheduled. The dance will begin with lunch at 11:30 AM followed by DJ Jon at 12:00 Noon.

June 26th is the date of the Hampton Beach late afternoon and evening trip. There will now be one bus used for both groups; and, there are only a couple of spaces remaining on this trip.

Departure time is 3:00 PM from the Senior Center with a return time of approximately 11:00 PM. The trip cost is $14 and includes transportation and driver gratuity.

The second Mens Group meeting of the month will be held next Thursday, June 27th, beginning at 9:00 AM in the crafts room.

The Upscale Consignment Boutique will hold its "Intake of Items" day on Monday, July 1st, from 2:00 to 6:00 PM. On "intake day" the Upscale shop is open until 6:00 PM which is a great time to check out all those new items that come in.

The next Foxwood day trip will be held on Monday, July 8th. Tickets went on sale this past Monday.

The trip cost is $25 per person. Up-coming day trips details for July and August should be ready by this Thursday for posting. They will be noted next week.

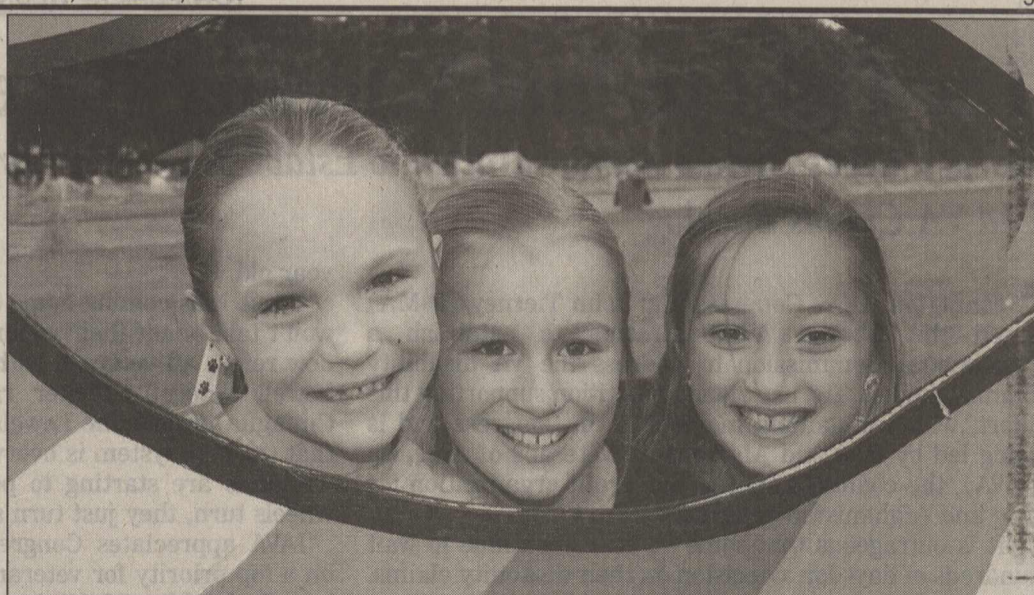

Dr. Smith will conduct a Podiatry Clinic at the Senior Center on Tuesday, July 9th. This clinic will be limited to 35 Tewksbury Senior Citizens on a first come basis. A co-payment of $15 is due upon registration. This clinic is partially funded by the Council on Aging. There was still space available at the time this article was submitted.

A Country Western dance will be held at the Senior Center on Friday, July 12th at 7:00 PM. The featured Band for the evening is the Jimmy Allen Band. Tickets may now be purchased and will also be available at the door. As with all the Senior Center dances, this dance is open to the public.

A Friends Senior Center Yard Sale will be held on Saturday, JULY 20th from 9:00 AM to 2:00 PM. Table space is available to the general public at $15 per table or two tables for $25. Reservations are now being accepted.

Have a great week. God Bless America.

The Fight to End Veterans' Benefit Delays

Tierney Urges Obama Administration to Establish Commission to End VA Claims Backlog

Washington, DC - Congressman John Tierney (D-MA) urged the Obama Administration to establish a Presidential Commission to address the VA disability claims backlog. Tierney signed a petition supporting this effort, which is gaining momentum in Congress and is being led by Iraq and Afghanistan Veterans of America (IAVA), the country's largest non-profit organization for Iraq and Afghanistan veterans.

"It is outrageous that some veterans continue to wait hundreds of days for a decision on their disability claims. We must do everything possible to put a stop to these unacceptable delays and ensure that our veterans get the attention, assistance and benefits they deserve. The time has come to find a solution and I fully support the IAVA's efforts to establish a Presidential Commission to address this issue. We must keep our promise to those who have served and defended our country," said Congressman Tierney.

The Town Crier reached out to Wilmington Veterans Agent Lou Cimaglia and asked him about the veterans he works with, and backlogs local vets are experiencing.

Cimaglia agreed that the delays are a problem, lasting one to two years typically. One veteran, who ended up with a 100 percent disability, took nearly five years for the claims to wend their way through the bureaucracy. Efforts by the Boston regional office to outsource claims processing to other regional offices has improved the wait time in recent months after a directive from the Veterans Administration to determine cases more than a year old.

"These kids coming home all need so much help, many won't talk about their experiences," said Cimaglia, who now refers all veterans with mental health issues to the Lowell Veterans Center rather than a VA hospital. Cimaglia praises the Lowell Veterans Center, and notes that the "VA system is overwhelmed."

"Claims are starting to pop. Like I tell the kids, the wheels turn, they just turn slow," adds Cimaglia.

"IAVA appreciates Congressman Tierney's leadership on a top priority for veterans - ending the VA disability benefits backlog," IAVA founder and CEO Paul Rieckhoff said. "We thank Congressman Tierney for fighting for the newest generation of veterans and we will continue to work with him and other members of Congress to bring the number of veterans in the backlog to zero."

In addition to signing the IAVA's petition, Congressman Tierney has co-sponsored legislation - the Veterans Backlog Reduction Act - that would pay provisional benefits for claims that have not been adjudicated by 125 days after the claim was submitted. Last week, Tierney also voted in favor of an amendment to the Fiscal Year 2014 Military Construction and Veterans Affairs Appropriations Act offered by his Republican colleague, Rep. Mark Amodei of Nevada, that would shift $44 million for mandatory overtime to the VA Regional Offices with the worst disability claims backlogs - greater than 365 days.

Shawsheen team shines at trebuchet competitions

That's right, trebuchet!

BILLERICA – Even when the team from Shawsheen Valley Technical High School doesn't win at its annual trebuchet competitions, the group always seems to have an impact.

A trebuchet is a type of catapult that works by using the energy of a raised counterweight to throw a projectile.

On October 13, Shawsheen competed in a trebuchet competition at the annual New Hampshire Tech Fest for the fourth straight year.

Under the direction of instructor Paul Blanchette, the team once again put plenty of hard work in as the competition approached.

The event has become quite a tradition at Shawsheen. "Many other Shawsheen students attended to give both moral and technical support," said Blanchette. "The object of the competition was to design and build a trebuchet that would hurl water balloons 98 meters into a wooden castle. The kids did great."

Shawsheen's team ended up with a second-place trophy along with tools and tickets to a local event.

On May 2, the Shawsheen group participated in another event, this time against mostly college students at the Higgins Armory Museum in Worcester.

This was Shawsheen's second year competing at the museum.

"We competed against 21 other teams from many locations," Blanchette said. "This year there were teams from two other Massachusetts technical schools as well as college teams from schools like Plymouth State College. There were also several adult teams that competed."

At this event, Shawsheen was honored with the award for Best Modern Construction.

"We fell into this category because our machine wasn't the typical medieval trebuchet," Blanchette said. "Our trebuchet was powered by a 12-volt lawn tractor battery, used parts from an old truck and was operated by electronic remote control. If our ancestors would have used trebuchets like ours, history would have been much different."

Shawsheen's device threw a one-pound beanbag three different distances, 50, 75 and 100 feet.

The students that competed in New Hampshire were Shayna McGehee, Colin Brace, Matthew Donnell, Matthew Mayott, Dan Caulfield and Jessie Petrino. A 10th grade student, George Hooper, also provided the team with tremendous support.

McGehee, Brace, Donnell, Mayott and Petrino participated in the spring event.

"All of our team members worked weekends to prepare the trebuchet for this year's competition," Blanchette said. "However, not all of our members were able to attend the [May] competition. Some of the team members were scheduled to take their SATs on that day. Only four of our members were able to attend, but those four members did an excellent job."

Authors Hallie Ephron and Linda Barnes to Speak at Library

Hallie Ephron

Linda Barnes

WILMINGTON - Hallie Ephron, author of the bestselling suspense novel Never Tell a Lie and the recently released There Was an Old Woman, teams up with author Linda Barnes, writer of sixteen mystery novels including Lie Down With The Devil featuring private eye Carlotta Carlyle, for an entertaining author talk at the Wilmington Memorial Library Tuesday, July 9, 7pm.

Hallie Ephron made a splash writing suspense with Never Tell a Lie published by HarperCollins in 2009. In a starred review, Publishers Weekly called it "stunning" and a "deliciously creepy tale of obsession." It was nominated for multiple awards, including the Mary Higgins Clark Award, and was adapted for film as And Baby Will Fall for the Lifetime Movie Network. Hallie's new book is There Was an Old Woman. Set in the Bronx, it's a story of trust and betrayal, deception and madness. In it, a young woman and a very old woman connect across generations in spite of, or perhaps because, they are not related.

Hallie's parents were screenwriters Henry and Phoebe Ephron who wrote such classics as Desk Set and Carousel. She grew up in Beverly Hills in a house filled with books, the third of four sisters (Nora, Delia, Hallie, and Amy) all competing to be heard. It was a good training ground for a writer.

Linda Barnes has written 16 mystery novels, 12 featuring her 6'1" redheaded Boston private eye Carlotta Carlyle, and four featuring actor/detective Michael Spraggue, an amateur sleuth. In addition to bestselling mysteries, she has also written award-winning plays and short stories. Among her many honors, Barnes won the Anthony Award and nominations for both the Shamus Award and the American Mystery Award for Best Short Story for "Lucky Penny" in 1985. In 1987 she received the American Mystery Award for Best Private Eye Novel and nominations for the Edgar, Anthony, and Shamus awards for A Trouble of Fools. The Snake Tattoo was named one of the outstanding books of 1990 by The London Times.

The library is hosting other authors this summer including: J. Courtney Sullivan (Maine) July 22, Maryanne O'Hara (Cascade) and B.A. Shapiro (The Art Forger) August 6, and William Landay (Defending Jacob) September 6. Book signings and sales follow the talks. Call the library at 978-658-2967 or check the library's website (wilmli.org) for more information.

OBITUARIES

Marion V. Driscoll Member of the Carnation Belles

TEWKSBURY - Marion V. (Samuelson) Driscoll, 80, of Tewksbury, formerly of Woburn, passed away at her home on Saturday, June 15, 2013. She was the wife of the late Donald F. Driscoll, Sr. who died in 2009.

Born in Boston and raised in Everett, she was the daughter of the late John, and the late Vivian (Carlson) Samuelson. Marion and her late husband Donald had lived in Woburn for many years prior to coming to Tewksbury in 1987. Prior to her retirement, she worked as a cake decorator at the Doughnut Kitchen in Woburn.

Marion had been active at the Tewksbury Senior Center. She was also a member of the Carnation Belles Chapter of the Red Hat Society in Tewksbury. In her younger years, she enjoyed dancing, yoga, and bowling.

In addition to her husband, Marion was also preceded in death by her son, the late Donald F. Driscoll, Jr. who died in 2003. She is survived by one daughter, Arlene Flebotte of Tewksbury; one granddaughter, Danielle Driscoll of Tewksbury; and several nieces, nephews, and cousins.

A funeral service will be held at the Graham Funeral Home, 3 Arlington Rd., Woburn on Friday, June 21 at 11:00 a.m. An hour of visitation will be held prior to the service on Friday from 10:00 to 11:00 a.m. Burial will be at the Woodbrook Cemetery in Woburn. Contributions in Marion's memory may be made to the Merrimack Valley Hospice, 360 Merrimack St., Lawrence, MA 01843

Tirzah M. F. Krey Dedicated to education and service to others

WILMINGTON - Tirzah Krey, 79, was called to be with her Lord after a long illness on June 15, 2013. A retired science teacher for the Wilmington Public Schools with 38 years of service, Tirzah was beloved, respected and remembered by her students.

The sixth of 16 children, Tirzah was born March 4, 1934 in Ambridge, Pennsylvania to the late Rev. Rudolf E. M. Krey and the late Gertrude Emilie (Behrens) Krey. Along with her family she spent several years of her childhood in Germany eventually returning to Brooklyn, New York. After relocating to Haverhill, Massachusetts, the family settled in Wilmington in 1959.

Pursuing her natural ability to teach, Tirzah attended Salem State Teachers College graduating with highest honors in 1956. She first taught at an elementary school in Haverhill and in 1960 began her long career for the Town of Wilmington. With a passion for knowledge and commitment to professional development, Tirzah continued her education at Boston University receiving her M.Ed. in June of 1963 and then furthered her science concentration with numerous courses at Tufts University. In addition to teaching Middle School Science, Tirzah directed the Drama Club as well as countless school plays, even coaching Boys' Junior High basketball. Her teaching methods were creative and she was tireless in encouraging and motivating students to learn. Moreover, with her years of experience and enthusiasm, she encouraged many aspiring teachers.

Dedicated to the well-being of others, Tirzah quietly and often anonymously assisted people in need with financial support and thoughtful gifts. An active member of Pinewood Lutheran Church, she served as choir director, taught Sunday School and Vacation Bible School, and for many years directed the Christmas pageant. She was a member of her church's Action Group and attended several weekly Bible studies. In addition to her devotion to teaching, Tirzah had many interests, including music, theology, family history, and writing. Her hobbies included arts and crafts, floral design, and holiday decorating. Famous for her chocolate, Tirzah was a gourmet cook trained under Madeline Kamen.

She loved children and they loved her. Throughout her teaching and retirement years, wherever she went 'Miss Krey' would be regularly recognized and greeted by former students in all walks of life who expressed their gratitude for her positive influence on their lives.

Tirzah is the dear sister of the late Ruth Krey Stark and her late husband William; Esther Krey Lowrey of Wilmington and her late husband Albert; Rev. Matthias R. L. Krey and his wife Joan of Windsor, Ontario, Canada; the late Johanna I. M. Krey; Phoebe Krey Lanzoni, MD of Millburn, NJ and her late husband Vincent Lanzoni, MD; John T. F. Krey and his wife Carlene of Andover; Mirjam Krey Catellier and her husband Claude Catellier, MD of Sainte-Petronille, Quebec, Canada; Rhoda U. Morris and her husband James of Wakefield; Priscilla Krey Loring of Andover and her late husband Charles; Rev. Peter D. S. Krey, PhD and his wife Nora of Albany, CA; the late James H. J. Krey; Rev. Andrew E. V. Krey and his wife Sally of Savannah, GA; Rev. Philip D. W. Krey, PhD and his wife René Diemer of Philadelphia, PA; Shem G. W. Krey and his wife Alice Kern of Doha, Qatar; and Susanna H. Krey and her husband Charles Miller of Brecksville, OH. Tirzah is also survived by two generations of nieces and nephews and many relatives in Germany.

Visiting hours are from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. and 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. on Thursday, June 20 at the Nichols Funeral Home, 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington, MA 01887 (978-658-4744). Family and friends will gather for a funeral service on Friday, June 21 at 10:30 a.m. at Pinewood Lutheran Church, 24 Wilmington Road, Burlington, MA 01803 (781-273-1610). Interment will follow the service at Wildwood Cemetery in Wilmington.

Donations in memory of Tirzah Krey may be made to the Mission Fund of Pinewood Lutheran Church, 24 Wilmington Road, Burlington, MA 01803.

Sarah V. Meehan

Formerly of Wilmington, worked at Yee's Chinese Restaurant

WILMINGTON - Sarah V. (Green) Meehan, age 77, of Landaff, NH, formerly a long-time resident of Wilmington, MA, died peacefully on June 13, 2013, at the Littleton Regional Hospital in Littleton, NH.

Sarah was born on October 10, 1935, in Boston, MA, she was the cherished daughter of the late Joseph and Olive (Emery) Green. Sarah was raised in Winchester; she was part of a large and loving family. Sarah was a graduate of Winchester High School, Class of 1952.

In 1953, Sarah married the "love of her life" Walter F. Meehan, Jr., sharing more than 37 years of marriage before his untimely passing in 1990. Sarah and Walter moved to Wilmington in 1961, where they raised five wonderful children. Family was first and foremost to Sarah, she was a devoted wife, mother, and grandmother; there wasn't anything Sarah wouldn't do for her family and her love for them was unconditional. Sarah was very proud of her family and she loved to share each and every special event with them.

Sarah and Walter enjoyed entertaining, throwing huge cookouts and pool parties for family and friends, summering at Hampton Beach, and always have a fun time where ever they went.

Sarah worked at Yee's Chinese Restaurant in Wilmington for many years where she was always smiling and very pleasant to the customers.

Following Walter's passing, Sarah moved with her daughter to Raymond, NH for 10 years and finally retired to the White Mountains of Landaff, NH.

In her spare time, Sarah love to knit, crochet, and was an excellent baker. She enjoyed her animals, especially her dogs, but most of all she just loved "hanging out" with her family.

Sarah will be remembered for her kindness and caring ways toward others, her sense of style, and for her love of people. She was truly a wonderful wife, mother, grandmother, daughter, sister, aunt, and friend to many. Sarah was a very classy lady who will be greatly missed by all.

Sarah was the beloved wife of the late Walter F. Meehan, Jr., devoted mother of Joseph Meehan & his wife Rosalie of Hampton, NH, Sarah Hurton & her husband Steve of North Andover, Sheila Esposito & her husband Dino, the late Walter F. Meehan III and his wife Cindy all of Wilmington, and Joanne Norton & her husband Roy of Landaff, NH. Loving grandmother of Betty Anne Binette, Joseph Meehan, Jr. Kimberly Sullivan, Siobhan Coellner, Michael Saunders, Daniel Saunders, Julie Martin, Alycia Esposito, Gerald Esposito, Kathleen Esposito, Tiffany Meehan, Walter F. Meehan IV, Roy Norton, Jr.

Patrick T. Norton, great-grandchildren Sebastian, Olivia, Connor, Penelope, Piper, Avery, Laney, Kyle, Carter, Michael, Madison, Daniel, Kaitlyn, Elisha, Michael, Charles, Bella, Lyra, Roy, Emma, and her great-great-granddaughter Ellie, cherished daughter of the late Joseph and Olive (Emery) Green, dear sister of Olive C. Morneault & her husband Donald of Londonderry, NH, the late John E. Watters, Charles F. Watters, Thomas H. Green, Joseph G. Green, Mary E. Lee, and Alice A. Lawson. Sarah is also survived by her sisters-in-law Beatrice Meehan of Winchester and Elaine Watters of Burlington, as well as many nieces and nephews.

Q. Dr. Bob, do I qualify for free diabetic shoes if I have poor circulation?
~ Mary, Stoneham
B. Ask your doctor whether your foot pressure would be distributed more effectively with a customized approach to shoes and insoles. It's important that your feet don't develop calluses - because poor circulation puts you at risk for slow recovery from wounds.

5th Annual Memorial Motorcycle Ride

WILMINGTON - The family of Mark Hauber invites the public to join them in honoring Mark "Port" Haubner on June 22nd, 2013.

Mark passed away on January 2, 2009 from injuries he sustained in a car accident. He was an organ donor and donated as many organs as he could, says his brother, Shawn. There are people alive today because they received one of his organs, but there are many others out there that are in need of organs to stay alive and healthy, and we can help!

The Memorial Ride will begin at 24 Lucaya Circle in Wilmington, MA on Saturday, June 22, 2013, at 10:00 am, and there will also be a cookout there all day for anyone who is not riding but wants to come and enjoy a day of memory for Mark.

MARK HAUBNER

Riders will be going through the town of Wilmington, MA, then to Honda North in Danvers, then off to Hampton Beach, then back to Wilmington to finish the day with a cook out.

Donations of $25 dollars per rider will go to the New England Organ Bank. Donations by check to the NEOB can be made out to New England Organ Bank.

Anyone interested in riding or donating, are encouraged to email organizers at shawnhaub@yahoo.com.

Bachelor's of Science in Psychology. Also, Joel Altavesta of Tewksbury, has been named to the Dean's List for academic excellence for the spring 2013 term. Altavesta is studying Criminal Justice.

Four Tewksbury residents make Dean's List at Providence College

The following Tewksbury residents have been named to the Dean's List at Providence College for the Spring 2013 semester: Devan Horahan (Class of 2014), Tyler Stein (2016), Janelle Vultaggio (2013) and Samantha Wood (2013). To qualify for the Dean's List, students must achieve at least a 3.55 grade point average with a minimum of 12 credits.

Wang graduates from Villanova University

David Wang of Wilmington, graduated from Villanova University with a Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering during a spring commencement ceremony, held on Sunday, May 19.

Since 1842, Villanova University's Augustinian

Catholic intellectual tradition has been the cornerstone of an academic community in which students learn to think critically, act compassionately and succeed while serving others. Visit www.villanova.edu for more information.

Many locals excel at Nichols College

The Office of the Registrar at Nichols College in Dudley, Massachusetts has announced the Dean's List for the spring semester of 2013.

Congratulations to Leonard Colometo (Graduate School) from Wilmington, who achieved Dean's List as well as Tewksbury residents Alyssa Finn, Rileigh MacMurdo and Robert Silva who achieved Dean's High honors and Shannon Healy who achieved Dean's List.

The Dean's List gives recognition to those students who achieve high grades during a single semester.

Read and Win this Summer!

Kids who read this summer will practice important reading skills while enjoying wonderful stories, interesting characters and fun adventures. In addition, reading makes you eligible to win prizes! Read for 750 minutes (12 ½ hours) and win a Topsfield Fair Prize Package. Each time you read a book, log it online or fill out an entry form in the library. Every week a lucky reader's name will be drawn to win a book. For each book you read, you will also get an entry into the grand prize drawing. The more you read, the more chances you get. For each book read, you will also get an entry into the grand prize drawing for a Kindle Fire!

Adult and teen readers can also participate and win prizes. Each week during the summer (June 22 - August 16) a winner will be drawn for a Starbucks or Dunkin' Donuts gift card. Read a book, jot down a few words about it, and submit your entry online at <http://www.wilmlibrary.org/summer-reading> or drop it off at the library. Everyone who participates is entered to win the grand prize- gift certificates to local restaurants and services valued at over $100. The grand prize drawing for teen readers is $100 worth of gift certificates to Wilmington pizza shops. All winners will be announced at the Summer Reading Ice Cream Social on August 16. Thanks to the Friends of the Library for funding summer events and prizes!

Tewksbury Man Pleads Guilty To Child Rape and Extortion Charges

defendant to 10-15 years in prison with 15 years probation to follow. While on probation, the defendant is ordered to have no direct or indirect contact with any of the victims, no unsupervised contact with children under the age of 18, to comply with the requirements of the Sex Offender Registry, to undergo sex offender treatment, to refrain from certain use of the internet or any computers or smart phones, and to comply with GPS monitoring.

"This defendant, hiding behind the anonymity of the Internet, gained access to and exploited unwitting young people," District Attorney Ryan said. "Not satisfied with only deceiving and manipulating these victims online, he then tried to extort some of them with threats of disclosing their activities online and assaulted others when he forced them to meet with him in person. This case is a stark reminder of the potential dangers of predators who manipulate the relative freedom of the internet for their own ends. As adults we have to be mindful and vigilant about the people we interact with online and especially so when it comes to our children."

The defendant's activities came to the attention of authorities in early 2011. Around that time, a then 15-year-old girl using the website MyYearbook.com had online contact with a person, later identified to be the defendant. The defendant, posing as a girl named "Brittany" offered to introduce the victim online to a person with knowledge of the modeling business. Shortly thereafter, the defendant contacted her as the modeling representative, now using the screen name Sexybeast5655@aim.com. Initially, the defendant requested pictures of the victim in a bathing suit and then eventually asked for naked pictures and videos. Once the victim complied, the defendant threatened to post those images and videos if she didn't have sex with his "friend." He then threatened to rape her if she refused to meet his friend in person or if she told police. The defendant contacted the victim online posing as the friend, "Tommy," using the screen name Tommy364587@aim.com and arranged to meet her in person and, again, threatened to harm her if she did not complete a sex act. On February 28, 2011, the defendant, posing as "Tommy," drove to the victim's neighborhood, made her get in his car and forced her to perform a sex act.

When authorities became involved, they immediately launched an investigation and, in May 2011, Medford and Tewksbury Police executed search warrants at the defendant's home and on his car. Upon searching his computer, they found numerous photos and videos, which were pornographic in nature, depicting dozens of children - mainly female - who appeared to be under the age of 18. Authorities were able to identify seventeen additional victims who were depicted on those videos. Investigators also discovered tens of thousands of entries in Skype log files, showing hundreds of chat conversations, incoming and outgoing calls, and file transfers between dozens of potential victims and the defendant.

Through their investigation, authorities learned that the defendant contacted the victims online, usually through MyYearbook.com or Facebook.com, and identified himself as a female named "Brittany." Many victims were approached by "Brittany" to communicate online, through internet chat and over webcam, and encouraged to send "her" naked pictures or to perform sexual acts on camera. "Brittany" would then introduce victims online to another fictitious person named "steve.modeling," who also directed the victims to send him naked pictures and perform sexual acts on camera as part of what he claimed was an audition for modeling jobs. "Brittany" and "Steve" would sometimes offer the girls money to engage in sexual acts with others.

The defendant also posed as "Sean Mullen" and "Jess Adams" and offered to put the victims in touch with "steve.modeling" and requested naked pictures and asked them to perform sexual acts on camera. He also presented himself as the "friend" "Tom" or "Tommy."

In some instances, the defendant would tell the victims that he had recorded their actions on webcam, and threatened to post or publish those videos or pictures publicly if they did not comply with more of his demands. In several instances, as a result of those threats, victims agreed to meet the defendant and were then sexually assaulted by him.

The defendant was arrested on July 8, 2011 following the initial investigation and was subsequently indicted by a Middlesex County grand jury on October 18, 2011. He was arraigned in Middlesex Superior Court in Woburn on December 8, 2011 where Judge Leila Kern ordered the defendant held on $5,000 cash bail with the conditions that he remain on GPS monitoring with a curfew, abide by all restraining orders, have no direct or indirect contact with the victim and any witnesses in the case, not use computers or any device which has the ability to connect to the internet, surrender his passport and not leave the Commonwealth, have no unsupervised contact with any child under the age of 18, including online contact, and report to probation once a week.

Following arraignment on charges related to that initial investigation, authorities identified other victims depicted in videos found on the defendant's computer. The defendant was subsequently indicted on 46 additional counts on March 29, 2012.

This case was investigated by Massachusetts State Police assigned to the Middlesex District Attorney's Office, the Medford Police Department, the Bedford Police Department, and the North Eastern Massachusetts Law Enforcement Council, with assistance from numerous other law enforcement agencies including the Marblehead, Reading, Tewksbury, Wilmington, and Millis Police Departments, and Massachusetts State Police assigned to the Norfolk County District Attorney's Office.

The Assistant District Attorney assigned to the case is Elissa Torto. The Victim Witness Advocate is Susie Marshall. The paralegal is Erika Willey. The Child Interview Specialists are Margaret Leavitt, Katie Nugent, and Alicia Compitello.

down the track. Many other people moved along supporting their family members and friends in the same manner. Little did they all realize the symbolism of this gesture. Much like caregivers throughout the cancer battle, they just kept going on and being there for the people they support. Turn after turn in the walk...like day after day in the battle.

From the track, these survivors and their caregivers moved to a reserved area where Rocco's Restaurant of Wilmington provided dinner with desserts by Concord Teacakes. Relay's focus is on honoring survivors. The back of the survivor purple T-shirts explain why. "I Am Hope" it says in bold whole letters. Planning Committee member Kim Martiniello took on an expanded role this year to place more emphasis on survivor activities. "We want to thank them and let them know how much we understand what they went through," she says.

To that end, she received support from the Wilmington High School Band. The Strings came to Relay For Life this year and provided the music for the Survivor Dinner. Led by Bella Cigna, they created a special playlist of songs for these heroes. The soothing melodies of their performance added a relaxing touch of class to the outdoor dining experience. "It's so meaningful to see this type of support from young adults," said Sheri Walsh, a 23-year survivor. "We all hope that what we do now, raising money and awareness, makes cancer less of a factor for them in their lives."

Twilight brought the beautiful and poignant luminaria ceremony. The message of HOPE and CURE was spelled out in flickering candle light as people remembered those lost to the disease. Another touching moment was when the Sons of Italy from Wilmington presented a check for $1200 to the Committee Chair, Joe Martiniello and American Cancer Society representative, Jennifer Wassan. "The Sons of Italy support us every year," Martiniello explains. "This is the type of community involvement that helps make our Relay such a success."

The Relay festivities continued throughout the entire night. Children played in the Fun Zone and were entertained by the giant animal character "Bubbles" from The Learning Experience. The Wilmington Dance Academy performed. And there was a chance for everyone to dance when Jenn Earls taught Salsa lessons. Veteran supporters Two Cousins DJs & Karaoke and The Jessica Pouty Band provided entertainment. Even after midnight and well into the morning hours, there was no problem finding things to keep the team members going strong. Among the late night activities were a Pizza Blitz sponsored by Bertucci's, volunteer Kaitlin Kinsella's organized races and games, and the Steve Bjork and Friends Comedy Show. In addition, the Fight Back Ceremony provided a chance to think about the future and what could be done to continue the battle against cancer.

Cancer never sleeps so neither did the teams. Each team had at least one person walking the track throughout the entire event. And it's not over. They will continue their Relay involvement. Fund raising does not stop until August 31. For a chance to donate or see pictures from the event, visit www.wilmingtonrfl.com or check out the Wilmington Relay for Life Facebook page.

stores or mega markets could be significant. "You don't know where the food you buy at Hannafords comes from. It might be local, but it could be across the country, even across the entire world. Here in Wilmington, the food is local."

The market also has non-food items for viewing and purchase. Anthony Saragosa displayed two items that can help gardeners better hone their craft. One, a rain bucket, can help collect water to keep a garden moist and growing. The other, a compost bucket, can help make fertilizer and can be bought from the town for $24, less than a third of the price that Saragosa estimates a customer would have to pay for it if they looked at a traditional retail store.

Many area residents were excited for the return of the market as well. Children stated that the Farmers Market allowed for lots of "Fun, and yummy, foods" and their parents were very happy to agree with them. Not only that, but the activities offered, like a performance by the Wilmington Dance Company on the 16th, provides entertainment along with nutrition. One young girl was very excited to have received a bracelet from a local company, Juice Box Diva, made out of recycled materials from juice boxes. "There is something for everyone here at the Farmers Market" said Ober.

Valedictorian address by Amanda Angelo

Good evening ladies and gentlemen, family, friends, faculty and most importantly, Shawsheen's graduating class of 2013. I don't know about all of you, but I'm still in a state of shock that this day has actually come. I remember walking into the gym on that first day of high school like it was just yesterday. I looked up at those packed bleachers and thought to myself, "Oh my gosh, I don't know any of these people." My next thought was, "Please don't let me trip and fall on my face!" There were so many fears that first year in high school like where's my next class, how am I possibly going to get ready in 20 minutes after swimming, and the biggest one of all, what shop should I choose? So much was being piled onto us at once, that it seemed as though the next year was going to be impossible. As frightening as it was, we made it through that dreaded freshmen year and were no longer the smallest fish in the big pond.

The next three years seemed to be the longest and shortest years of my life. With all of the early mornings, countless tests, and endless homework, high school felt as though it would never be over. However, the sporting events, spirit weeks, field trips, and even causal time spent in the hallways with friends, have made these days fly by.

Somewhere in between all of the good times and bad times, Shawsheen has found a way to teach us lessons that we will carry with us for the rest of our lives. Yes, I will remember how to simplify a complicated math problem, or how to properly cite my sources at the end of a paper, but the most important thing that I have taken from this school is that anything is possible.

Never would I have imagined that that frightened little girl from the bleachers would be on a path to becoming a surgeon. Shawsheen has helped us each create our own paths and has even helped with our first few steps, but now it is our turn to take charge. It is our future and we decide what will happen to us. Some people will say that high school is the best years of your life. The way I see it, high school has been the best years of our lives . . . so far.

I hope that when looking back on these unforgettable four years, you not only think about the good times with friends, but of the people who helped you get to where you are today. Give credit where credit is due, like to your teachers for all that they have done for you. Yes, they were no doubt a pain in the neck giving us ridiculous amounts of homework, but they were also the ones who inspired us to come out of our shells and try new things. I am forever grateful to my shop teachers for showing me that I actually do like the health field and for helping me get the job I have today. I would also like to thank my academic teachers for constantly pushing me to work my hardest and preparing me for what my future could hold.

Other people who deserve our thanks are our families. I would especially like to thank my mother and father for putting up with me through some of the toughest years of my life. You have been there for me not only during the celebrations of good grades but through the sleepless nights and nervous breakdowns. You have given me unconditional love and support and for that, I am more grateful than you will ever know.

It still amazes me that that huge group of people whom I didn't know on the first day of school is now a family. If someone had told me on that day that I would know and become friends with almost all of those people, I would have said one thing: impossible. I never would have imagined that just a few weeks later, my mom would be reading notes on my report cards saying that her daughter was talking WAY too much in ALL of her classes. I couldn't help it though; each person I have met at Shawsheen has been even kinder than the last. Who thought that putting people from five separate towns together in one building would ever work? However, in just four short years, that big group of strangers has come together and formed bonds that will last a life time.

It's sad to think that just as we've become so close, we must now separate; however, it is better to look on the bright side of things. We all came into this school for a reason; we were unsure as to what we wanted to do with our lives. Now, we have discovered our likes, dislikes, what we're good at and what we're not so good at, and as a result, have created our own individual paths for our futures.

After today, we will take our first steps down our long paths and discover what the world has to offer us. This is an exciting time filled with new faces and new experiences, but we will never forget the memories we have made here. Either way, just as Ralph Waldo Emerson had said, "What lies behind us, and what lies before us are small matters compared to what lies within us."

As I stand here on this stage, first in my class, I'm looking out at the faces of hundreds of other number ones. I see the future's best chefs, nurses, architects, photographers, teachers, musicians, soldiers, artists, athletes, mechanics and whatever else you could possibly think of. I have seen a passion in each and every one of you for something in your life, but you have only gotten just a taste of it in these past four years. I hope that you all choose to pursue your passion because I know that you can be successful, no matter what you choose to do. By continuing to do what you love, there will be many more years of joy ahead. Congratulations Class of 2013 and always keep in mind, anything is possible.

Salutatorian address by Kevin Hines

Welcome everyone.

It is a great honor to be Shawsheen Tech's Salutatorian. But all my fellow classmates should be extremely proud of themselves for being here tonight. High school is hard work; working hard, something that I have always been told to do, is finally paying off. From an early age I was taught that anything in life that I wanted, I was going to have work for. No matter what the obstacle was, it would take time and effort to achieve, with frequent struggle. Struggles are often very complicated, and we need people we can depend on for help. I have had so much help from all my friends, family, and instructors during my four years here at Shawsheen. Even kind gestures, such as picking up a pencil I had dropped, helped my success by making the learning environment more comfortable. I know it doesn't sound like much, but for an incoming freshman in a new school, kind gestures help. Sitting in a classroom with kids you don't know can be a scary thing, not to mention that you're also trying to learn. So when someone helps you out and you feel wanted, you can learn better. We have a lot of people who helped us and need to be thanked.

Help comes from all corners; the teachers here at Shawsheen are dedicated to helping their students. They come into work every day with a positive attitude on teaching us what we need to know to be successful in life. On several occasions, and in every one of my subjects, my teachers have given me extra time on my tests. Their generosity helped me improve my timing, and now I can finish my exams with the rest of my peers. I remember every day of shop week freshman year, I would go and finish my English test for Mr. Bloom during homeroom. He was so understanding, and his cooperative attitude toward my test taking helped me succeed.

I would also like to thank all of the teachers that I have had, in addition to Ms. Poulten for being an excellent National Honors Society Advisor, and Ms. Sciacca for helping me express my thoughts on paper for this speech. We should thank our teachers for showing the willingness to work with us, always being there for extra help, or just someone to talk to. They put our needs ahead of theirs and it doesn't go unnoticed.

I want to thank my shop teachers, Mr. Doherty, Mr. Masse, and Mr. Gillis, for their contribution to this school's success. Mr. Doherty constantly checks in with his students to see how their grades are. Mr. Masse taught his students how to reach their goals while having a good time too. His calming presence on the job site made it easier to learn plumbing and valuable life lessons. Mr. Gillis has been a great advisor to me this year. I felt bad for him, being stuck with Gaffey and me for the whole year in shop, but he still keeps a great attitude about everything, and goes above and beyond for us. I want my shop teachers to get the recognition that they deserve, along with every other teacher that is willing to help their students.

I want to thank my neighbor Ms. Ferrari for driving me to school in the mornings for half of the year. She also did a phenomenal job as our class advisor, hosting fundraisers so we could have a great senior year. Most of us don't even know how much our teachers do for us, the little things, like just acknowledging we are there, is essential to learning. Knowing that you're not just another face in the crowd makes you feel valued. That is priceless; thank you.

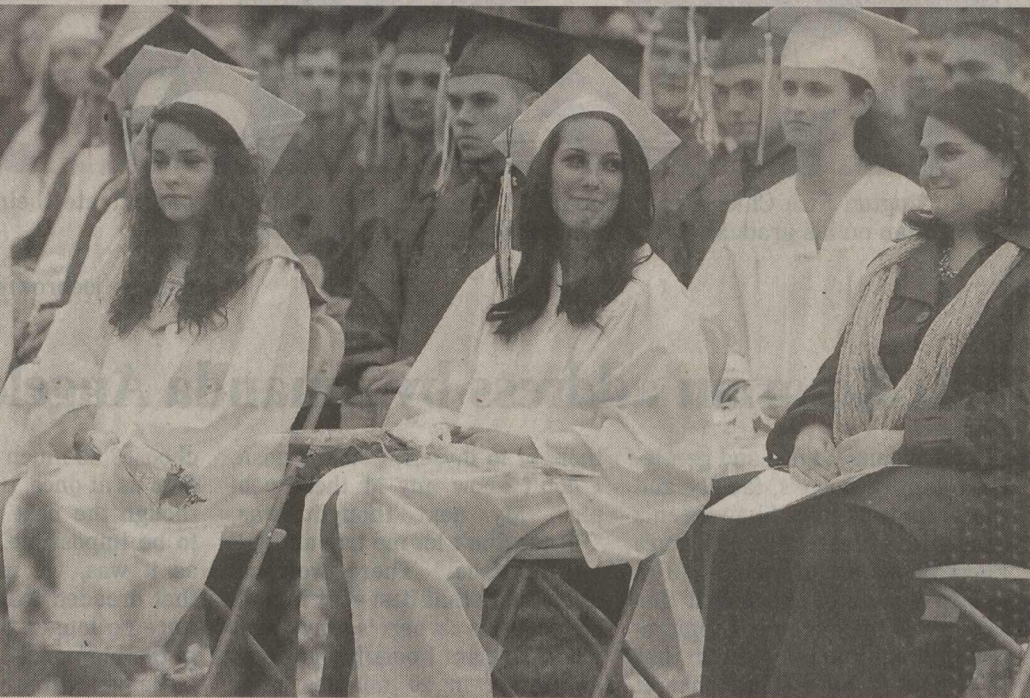

Our families are here tonight to see our hard work be recognized. This momentous occasion is not just for us as students, our parents have worked just as hard to be here as we have. I want to thank my entire family for all the help that they have given me this year. They are always pushing me to do my best, even when things seem like they can't get any worse. Our parents and guardians go to work every day to make money for our survival. They watch out for us, and make sure that we get the most out of our schooling. They should be thanked for their contribution to our success.

Most importantly, the friendships that we made at Shawsheen helped us get here. The overall friendly atmosphere helps us learn better because we see that we aren't doing it alone. My friends have always been there for me when I needed help, and I try to do the same. Back when I was a Sophomore I wasn't great at typing and it would take me forever. Since I had the essay written out on paper, Erin Higgins came over and offered to type it for me. She saved me so much time and I will always be thankful for the kindness that she showed me.

I want to thank the kids in my shop for letting me be a part of memories I will never forget. We as students can't learn well if we are afraid of going to school because we don't know anyone, or just don't feel comfortable. The friends that we make at school create an environment that allows us to fully focus on learning.

Every student here should be proud of their accomplishments, especially graduating high school. No one could do it alone; we all need our instructors, families, and friends to give us the tools for greatness. I will always miss the teachers I've had here, and the friends that I have made. We have helped each other out and succeeded together. We have to make sure to always remember to thank the people that assist us in our lives. Let's enjoy ourselves tonight, and make this an awesome graduation.

Two locals graduate from Norwich University

Two local students received diplomas received a degree in (Degree) from Norwich University at a May 11 commencement ceremony.

Anthony William Marinella of Wilmington (01887) received a degree in Mechanical Engineering and Dillon Kyle Halliday of Wilmington (01887) received a degree in Criminal Justice.

During the event, students and their families and friends had an opportunity to hear inspiring words about perseverance and success from keynote speaker Lawrence Rick Atkinson IV. Atkinson is an author and military historian who also won the Pulitzer Prize for national reporting in 1982 and for public service in 1999 for his work on a series of investigative reports about shootings by the District of Columbia Police Department.

A total of 366 students received their degrees (237 Cadets, 129 civilian students), and 126 students were commissioned as officers into the U.S. Armed Forces.

Also Norwich University announced the following five students were named to the school's Dean's List. The students include Halliday, Marinella and David Michael Sugrue of Wilmington, and Jennifer Ada Hogan and Kevin Michael McCauley of Tewksbury.

Norwich University is a diversified academic institution that educates traditional-age students and adults in a Corps of Cadets and as civilians. Norwich offers a broad selection of traditional and distance-learning programs culminating in Baccalaureate and Graduate Degrees.

Norwich University was founded in 1819 by Captain Alden Partridge of the U.S. Army and is the oldest private military college in the United States of America. Norwich is one of our nation's six senior military colleges and the birthplace of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC). www.norwich.edu.

Flaherty named Presidential Scholar at Clarkson

Lance M. Flaherty of Wilmington, Mass., a senior majoring in aeronautical engineering and mechanical engineering, was named a Presidential Scholar for the spring 2013 semester at Clarkson University.

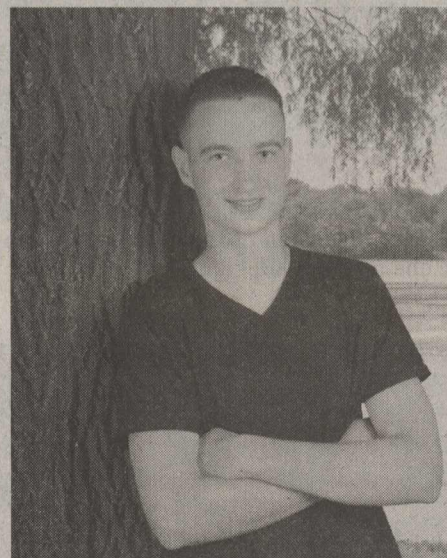

Presidential Scholars must achieve a minimum 3.80 grade-point average and carry at least 14 credit hours.

Clarkson University launches leaders into the global economy. One in five alumni already leads as a CEO, VP or equivalent senior executive of a company. Located just outside the Adirondack Park in Potsdam, N.Y., Clarkson is a nationally recognized research university for undergraduates with select graduate programs in signature areas of academic excellence directed toward the world's pressing issues. Through 50 rigorous programs of study in engineering, business, arts, sciences and health sciences, the entire learning-living community spans boundaries across disciplines, nations and cultures to build powers of observation, challenge the status quo, and connect discovery and engineering innovation with enterprise.

Four Tewksbury students graduate from Austin Prep

It can be difficult to maintain hope in a world so filled with conflict and violence, but focusing on hope will give you the courage to foster change and create peace, Austin Preparatory School Headmaster Paul J. Moran said during his graduation remarks.

SHAUGHN HILTZ

"We urge you never to let past injustice deprive you of the belief that, collectively, we can do better," Moran told the 121 graduates in the class of 2013. "We exhort you not just to believe passively in miracles, and cures, and healing wells, but to be active agents in bringing the miracle of self-healing to pass and helping to bring new life to its term."

Moran was the keynote speaker during Austin Prep's Commencement Exercises on Sat., June 1. It was a bittersweet day for him, because the ceremony was his last as headmaster. Moran, of Brookline, is retiring after 24 years at the helm of the Augustinian school in Reading. He has spent a total of 32 years at Austin Prep; when he started as an English teacher in 1981, the school was an all-boys high school. Today, Austin is a co-educational middle and high school serving more than 700 students.

SHANNON O'NEIL

Valedictorian Dana Chaykovsky of Tewksbury said she and her classmates have been well prepared for the challenges that lay ahead, and they will never forget all those who have helped them along the way.

"Sometimes the people who influence you the most don't even realize how much of an impact they made on your life. They deserve to know what wonderful things they have done," Chaykovsky said. "I know that who I am now is a result of meeting and interacting with all of you."

Salutatorian Holly Robinson of Lynn also thanked her family members, teachers and classmates for their support.

"It is obvious that we all owe a lot to our teachers, administrators, and families," Robinson said. "However, I also think we need to take time to thank each other for our accomplishments. The environment that we created among ourselves helped to facilitate the accomplishments of many, compelling every person to succeed in whatever was important to him."

Nearly all 121 graduates are going on to institutions of higher learning, receiving acceptances at more than 550 colleges and universities.

The class of 2013 includes the following students from Tewksbury:

Dana Chaykovsky, who will be attending Yale University in the fall;

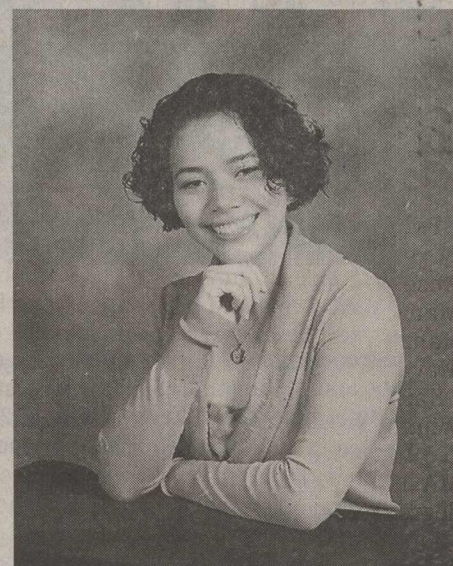

Bianca Enos, who will be attending Stetson University in the fall;

Shaughn Hiltz, who will be attending the University of Massachusetts Amherst in the fall;

Shannon O'Neil, who will be attending Franklin Pierce University in the fall

In addition, the following students received awards:

Dana Chaykovsky of Tewksbury, class of 2013 valedictorian, received the Cardinal Medeiros Medal for General Excellence, the Medal for English, the Medal for Physical Science, the Medal for Russian, a Gold Medal in the National Russian Essay Contest and the Academic Decathlon Award of Excellence.

Bianca Enos of Tewksbury received the William J. Hickey Jr. Memorial Good Sportsmanship Award, the Fred B. Cole Spirit Award, the Conservation Club Award of Excellence and the Dance Club Award of Excellence.

St. Anselm graduates and Dean's List names

Two local residents recently graduated from Saint Anselm College in Manchester, New Hampshire on Saturday, May 18th.

Kaitlyn E. Foy of Wilmington, MA and Monica L. Johnson of Tewksbury, MA both graduated with a degree in Nursing.

Johnson received a Saint Anselm College nurse's pin at the 2013 pinning ceremony in the Abbey Church on April 27. It was a special day for Johnson, who received a pin featuring elements of the college's official seal and the symbol of a lamp referring to Psalm 119:105, "Your word is a lamp of my steps and a light for my path." Dr. Sharon George, dean of nursing, pinned her with the Saint Anselm pin to wear for the entirety of her career.

The pinning ceremony is a celebration of a student's completion of Saint Anselm College's respected nursing program and symbolizes preparedness to serve as a compassionate caregiver in the healthcare setting.

Saint Anselm also announced its Dean's List for the Spring 2013 semester. Among the locals making the grade include Wilmington residents: Kathleen E. Clark, a Business major and a member of the class of 2014; Christine M. Woods, a Nursing major and a member of the class of 2014;

Meagan E. Cox, a Communication major and a member of the class of 2015; Heather R. Kealos, a Nursing major and a member of the class of 2015; Catherine Eleanor Mahoney, an Education Studies major and a member of the class of 2015; Domingos K. Neves, a Computer Science major and a member of the class of 2015; and Kerrienne L. Marino, an Engineering Physics major and a member of the class of 2016.

Locals from Tewksbury include: Lyndsay N. Robinson, a Politics major and a member of the class of 2014; and Julia Elizabeth Loschiavo, an English major and a member of the class of 2015.

Nine Wilmington residents graduate from Merrimack

Nine Wilmington residents were among the 512 undergraduates and 162 graduate students who recently received a diploma at two separate commencement ceremonies at Merrimack College recently. This was the first time a separate commencement was held to accommodate the growing number of Masters Degree students at the College.

The Wilmington residents include: Kaila Whooley earned a Bachelor of Arts in Social and Spanish; Krystn Forcina earned a Master of Education in Education; Julie Gorman earned a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration; Eric Lunt earned a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration; Lauren McGonagle earned a Master of Education in Education; Erin McMahon earned a Bachelor of Science in Computer Science; Meghan Mulrenan earned a Bachelor of Arts in Human Development; Ryan Parker earned a Bachelor of Arts in Criminology; And Jonathan See earned a Bachelor of Arts in Communication Studies.

Hosting event for Jimmy Fund Walk

Cashell Family giving back to Sibling program

By BRENDAN FOLEY
Sports Correspondent

This Sunday from 10 am to 10pm Emily Cashell will be offering you the chance to help change a life.

The 10-year old Tewksbury resident and her family will, in conjunction with the Merrimack Valley Pavilion Family Entertainment Center, be using the mini-golf course to raise money for Emily and teammate's donation to the Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk. The team needs to raise $10,000 in order to walk, and Emily is hopeful that the day of golf will significantly help that goal.

Anyone who wishes to participate can come down at any time between the 12 hours and play 18-holes of mini-golf. Besides mini-golf, the Center boasts several other family-friendly activities and events, which should make for a fun day out.

For Emily Cashell, this walk is a deeply personal concern. She is walking specifically to benefit the Jimmy Fund's Sibling Program, which provided the siblings of sick patients with one-on-one counseling, as well as group counseling and attention during hospital visits.

Emily has had a great deal of experience with the Sibling Program as she spent the better part of the last three years going in and out of hospitals while her younger sister Ashley battled Acute Lymphoblastic Leukemia.

As Emily's father, Mark, pointed out, the demands of cancer treatment can leave other members of the family feeling tossed aside and forgotten about.

"The focus is always on the kid who's sick. The sibling is pushed to the edge," he said.

Mark said the Sibling Program provides a voice for the children with sick brothers and sisters, and puts lonely kids in contact with peers who were going through the same thing, as well as councilors who could understand and help them through the difficult times. The Sibling Program also provided games and activities that could be played while wiling away the hours during treatments.

"I can't praise this program enough," said Mark.

While Ashley, now 8, is thankfully in remission, Emily has not forgotten how important the Sibling Program was for her. Instead, it has only fostered in her a desire to help others just as she was helped during her family's battle with disease.

"She's a real pay-it-forward type person," Mark explained.

Emily was a good deal more humble about it. Indeed, she was bashful, almost shy, when she was asked about the charity work that she does for others.

When asked why she would go to such lengths and deal with so many challenges to get an event up and running, her response was quite simple.

"I wanted to help," she said.

Of the Sibling Program, Emily has warm memories. "It helped me understand what was going on. It helped me meet people while I was staying in the hospital."

Emily first walked the Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk last year when she accompanied her father. Mostly she remembers the experience for the great views of the city and surrounding areas that the walk allowed her to see.

"The best was just all the things that you see. My Dad would tell me about all the sights and things."

Even finishing the walk will not be enough for Emily. She is already thinking about organizing some kind of movie night with a willing cinema, and Mark mentioned the Christmas toy drive which she spearheads.

Emily, Mark, Ashley and the rest of the Cashells have spent three years struggling against a terrible disease, and have emerged from the other side ready to help anyone else who finds themselves in that predicament.

To help them in this, you need only play a round of mini-golf at the Merrimack Valley Pavilion Family Entertainment Center, located at 2087 Main Street in Tewksbury. The day of golf is on June 23, and participants are welcome to arrive at any time between 10 AM and 10 PM.

Kennedy earns McDougall Scholarship

At the recent 2013 Wilmington High School Boys Lacrosse Banquet, The Wilmington Youth Lacrosse Association (WYLA) named Ryan Kennedy the 2013 male recipient of the Paul

"Scotty" McDougall Scholarship.

As one of the original founders, Scotty McDougall was an key part in the development of the WYLA program. Helping to set the values, the mission and laying the framework for the program, WYLA now stands as a youth sports organization that not only teaches children of Wilmington the sport of lacrosse, but instills the values of teamwork, fair play, sportsmanship and respect for all.

Scotty served as a coach and mentor to many children in the Wilmington community and unfortunately passed away in October of 2007. The scholarship, in memory of Scotty, is awarded to an outstanding male/outstanding female graduating senior displaying athletic achievement, strong academic standing, and commitment to community through volunteerism.

Ryan was Senior Captain and starting Attack of the 2013 league championship WHS Varsity lacrosse team, has been a four year varsity lacrosse player and starter and has been involved with WYLA since its inception in 2004 as a player and volunteer coach. A National Honor Society student, Ryan will be studying Business at University of Massachusetts Amherst in the fall. Presenting the scholarship award to Ryan is Sheila McDougall, Scotty's wife, and Frank Irizzary of Wilmington Youth Lacrosse.

A look back at the 1993 WHS Softball team's state championship title

Twenty years later, memories live on

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

The year before, 1992, they finished with a 7-12 overall record. That Wilmington High School Softball team had just two seniors and a ton of underclassmen were thrown into the fire, playing in easily the most difficult softball league in the state with the likes of flamethrowers Beth Love of Billerica and Carrie Ladebouche of Dracut. But there was plenty of promise after that 1992 season especially since the JV team had gone 18-1 and many of those players had been members of various youth softball state championship titles.

The team was headed up by coach Paul Lyman, who completed his third season in 1992, three years after taking over for Tom Mirisola. Lyman was familiar with some of the members of the team through the youth programs, but had a very strong background in the sport and being involved with his four daughters who all had fantastic high school and college careers themselves. When that 1992 season was over, he knew the following year's team had a lot of promise but he nor did anyone know what would happen in that magical three month span between April, May and June of 1993.

On a very hot and muggy Saturday afternoon, June 12th to be exact, the Wildcats defeated Mount Greylock Regional High School 6-3 to capture the program's first Division 2 State Championship title. Now 20 years and one week later, it's still an unforgettable memory for each and every one of the 17 players and three coaches who all had a big piece into that magical season that saw the Wildcats finish with an overall record of 22-2, which included a 6-0 post-season record and finishing the season winning their last 16 games not to mention taking the MVC Division 2 title, the Division 2 North Sectional, Eastern Mass and state championship titles.

The fact that the team finished out the run with a 16-game winning streak certainly had gone under the radar, considering all of that pressure on a team that was comprised of five seniors, three juniors, seven sophomores and two freshmen. But the biggest aspect that has been lost in all of the accomplishment of winning was the fact that the team came together, and that certainly wasn't easy for a handful of the seniors, who at times had to take a backseat in terms of playing time for the very talented underclassmen.

"We knew that we had some excellent athletes but none of us ever saw it coming," said Lyman, who resigned after 13 years as head coach at WHS after the 2001 season and now just completed his 13th year as head coach at Bishop Fenwick High School. "But the reason why we won is because of the leadership of those older kids who allowed those younger kids to play, and to split time with them so by the end of the year, we had a very deep, versatile team and we could do a lot of different things because of that. Plus we had Adrienne (Fay) and she was just a great pitcher."

"We needed the chemistry to build and it wasn't easy because a lot of those older kids had played a lot before that season but we just had a lot of sophomores who were very talented players so we had to find the right mix. Those seniors were all outstanding leaders especially the captains Nicole Ouellette and Keri Bowlby. I have said it since that season and I'll say it still today that they are the two best captains I have ever had in my coaching career."

Opening day roster

Lyman as well as his long-time assistant coach Jake

Townsend, and JV coach Maureen Noone, had many difficult decisions to make once the season broke in early April. But the roster was completely different from the one from 1992, and that seems strange since only two seniors, Leanne McConologue (now the WHS Field Hockey coach) and Laura Bartnick had graduated.

Before the '93 season started, the team knew it was getting a major pitching arm as Adrienne Fay had transferred to WHS after spending her first two years at Bishop Fenwick. On top of that, the team was in need of a catcher, and Carrie Tarantino was vying for that position after missing her entire junior season with mono. Her twin sister Leanne also missed the entire 1992 season with a major knee injury.

"We didn't know how Carrie and Leanne would come back," said Lyman. "We moved Leanne to the outfield because of her injury because she wasn't as agile to play first or third base. And Carrie was a good athlete and we needed a catcher because we wanted to move Nancy (Pote) out from there so she could help us in different positions which she did at first and second base. But having Carrie back there at catcher and Leanne in right with Jacqui Hayden really worked out for us."

The additions of Fay and the Tarantino twins, as well as the ten freshmen and sophomores -- some were varsity returners and some didn't have any varsity experience -- brought a plethora of talent to many of the positions and that in turn upset several of the older players who ended up leaving the team. But once the dust was settled, the coaching staff figured out that many platoon situations could work out the best. Fay and Carrie Tarantino made up the battery, while Pote and Laurie Southmayd made up the middle defense at second and short, Ouellette had left field and freshman Leanne Harris had center field.

After that it was a combination in every other position. Bowlby and Jacqueline Holloway saw time at first, junior Stacey Gillis and freshman Nicole Dussault saw time at third, Leanne Tarantino and Hayden saw time in right, while senior Lynette Berger saw most of her time at DH, and then Jenn Murray, Erin Falzone, Renee Vachon and Lindsay Currier also were in the mix at various positions/roles and the latter as a back-up pitcher. At that time when the roster was set, Ouellette thought that the team had potential but really didn't know what to expect.

"I knew we were going to be a young team that would need a lot of development," she said. "However I also believed that the underclassmen were extremely talented and had great potential. At the beginning of the season, did I believe we would end up as State Champions? No, I didn't have those high expectations. However, as the season progressed, it was apparent that we were playing really well together as a team, and that maybe we would have a shot at going deep in the tournament."

While Ouellette had left field to herself, Carrie Tarantino really didn't know where she stood during pre-season.

"I was pretty sure that Nancy (Pote) was going to be the catcher of the team," she said. "I am not too sure that I knew that I had a spot as the catcher. I knew Nancy and I both practiced at that position. I missed all of my junior year because I was sick with mono and not allowed to play so going into my senior year, I just wanted to play. I love playing and would have played anywhere to be out there. I definitely missed playing my junior year. I loved catching and I loved being (Adrienne's) catcher. She was very easy to catch. We grew up two houses down from each other so we always played in my yard."

Fay was obviously the key to the success. She was a dynamite pitcher but more importantly an incredible athlete, perhaps the best to walk through the halls of WHS in the past 20 years. She could dominate the soccer field, was a terrific basketball player and a true ace in every sense of the word on the mound. Besides having that dynamite fastball, change-up and location, she was a gold glove fielder and a tremendous hitter. But her best attribute was her carefree attitude -- she could give up back-to-back home runs and still smile. Nothing bothered her on the mound -- well unless it was umpires squeezing her -- and she had ice of veins. Tight and tense situations never bothered her.

"Her fastball was fantastic," said Carrie Tarantino. "She also had an amazing change-up. I didn't always call the pitches as Coach Lyman did that most of the time but I did love calling for a change-up though. That was fun. To pitch three straight fast balls and then have the fourth one be a change-up would have definitely confused me as a batter. I am very happy that I did not have to face Adrienne. I was very happy she was on our team. It was great news when she transferred to Wilmington High. She was a pitcher you could count on to stay calm and you knew she would always try her hardest."

Starting Out Strong

Back in 1993, Wilmington competed in the Merrimack Valley Conference and it was grueling to say the least. That season, Wilmington played all 18 of its games against league opponents, facing all nine teams twice each. The Wildcats started out strong winning its first five games over Andover (9-1), Methuen (7-4), Lowell (18-6), Tewksbury (8-0) and Haverhill (5-4) before falling to Lawrence (5-4).

After splitting games with Billerica and Dracut against Love and Ladebouche, the Cats were 6-2 and never were defeated the rest of the way. Wilmington went on to win its final ten regular season games to finish the season 16-2 with a MVC Division 2 Championship title. The Wildcats outscored their regular season opponents 104-38, had four shut outs and over the team's last six games, five times they gave up one run or less. And the strange thing was only five games were decided by one run and Wilmington's offense was just as good as the pitching scoring four runs or more in its first seven games and 12 of the 18 games.

While the offense was clicking and Fay was bringing the heat, the team started to bond and that incredible chemistry was apparent through the 16-game winning streak.

"I think Keri and I, and actually all of the upperclassmen on the team, did a good job of leading by example -- knowing when it was okay to goof around, and knowing when it was time to get serious and focus," said Ouellette. "The sophomores on the team were a fun bunch, and occasionally we would need to reign them in if they were getting a bit distracted during practice. But this rarely occurred during game time -- everyone was all business once the game started."

Lyman said that the biggest reason for the team meshing so well together was because of Ouellette and Bowlby.

"That team was just a special group of kids," said Lyman. "And you're only as good as your leaders. Nicole and Keri are the two best captains I've ever coached and the two of them are totally different people. Nicole was a good softball player and Keri didn't play as much as she would have liked and the two of them were the best leaders I've ever seen on a team. The thing I realized later on in my career is that you don't have to be the best team to win. If you have great kids, who believe in themselves and in each other, who believe in doing the right things, you can win. I've seen and coached teams over the years that have more talent than other teams but they didn't have that combination. I honestly believe that we won that year because of the senior leadership."

Post-Season Magic

The Wildcats closed out the regular season winning ten straight games including back-to-back shut outs over Billerica and Chelmsford. The Division 2 North sectional tournament started and Wilmington knew that if it continued to win, they would have all four sectional games before the home crowd as back then Aprile Field at Town Park hosted the semi-final and sectional final games.

"I remember at one practice right as the tournament was starting up, I was fielding balls in from the outfielders as Coach Townsend was hitting them out," recalled Ouellette. "We were discussing our chances, and I said to him that I think our team can go all the way. He turned to me, smiled, and said I think we can too. I'll never forget that."

Before huge crowds, Wilmington knocked off Greater Lawrence Tech 12-1 and Danvers 7-0 in the first two rounds. Fay tossed a two-hit shutout in the win over Danvers. Then in the sectional semi-finals, Wilmington knocked off Amesbury 5-2. That put the team into its first ever sectional title championship game against Matignon, who featured ace pitcher Heather Gillis, a southpaw and the cousin of third baseman Stacey Gillis.

"I was really concerned heading into that game," said Lyman. "Heather was a very good pitcher. She threw hard and was left-handed. If I remember, that game was real close until Matignon started to make some defensive mistakes which helped us."

Indeed, Wilmington won 2-0 and Fay continued her magic on the mound tossing a one-hit shutout and at that point in the tournament, she tossed 27 innings giving up one earned run on eight hits and struck out 21.

That win gave Wilmington its second trophy of the season, now the Division 2 North Title. But now with that latest win, the team would have its biggest challenge to date, another home game against a very good Case team.

"Going into the game it was thought that we had no business competing with them and they were a much better team," said Lyman. "They were supposed to be the better team. That was an incredible game. We won 1-0 and scored the lone run in the first inning on a suicide squeeze and then it stayed that way the rest of the game."

That win gave Wilmington the Division 2 Eastern Mass title, meaning one game was left on the schedule against Mount Greylock Regional High School. Mount Greylock had advanced to the state championship game several times but couldn't win the big game. And again that happened, and then again the following year in 1994 when the two teams met for the second straight time with Wilmington winning on the final play of the game.

The Epic Title

While it was strange that

Wilmington hosted the first six state tournament games, it was harder to grasp that Mount Greylock hosted the state championship game. Wilmington's bus took the trip to Williamstown, Mass and played on a cruddy, dirt field with a rubber cheap fence slapped down in the middle of the field.

"From my perspective, as a team we felt surprisingly calm and confident as the game started," said Ouellette. "There didn't seem to be much nervousness on display from our side. I credit a lot of this to our coaching and our pitcher, Adrienne Fay. She was an outstanding pitcher and got us out of a lot of jams over the course of the season -- nothing seemed to rattle her, and I think that her cool demeanor helped to settle the nerves of the rest of the team, especially the infielders who were primarily sophomores."

"Coach Lyman and Coach Townsend also had us well prepared -- I truly believe that our coaching and pitching were major factors to our success that season, and during the championship game. I had a lot of confidence entering that game that we would win."

The game was scoreless going to the bottom of the second and Mt. Greylock started to make some noise. With runners at second and third with one out, Fay struck out the next batter, only to walk the ensuing batter to load the bases.

"The umpire wasn't giving me anything," she said to the Crier about that situation after the game was over. "He was tough, and I was frustrated."

But Fay bore down and struck out the next batter to get out of the bases loaded jam keeping the game scoreless.

Wilmington's offense then responded by scoring five runs in the top of the third. Lynette Berger started the rally with a double and she scored after the next two batters reached on errors. That brought up Ouellette.

"I remember the triple very clearly," she recalled about smacking a two-run three-base hit. "I was seeing the ball really well and fouled off two or three pitches down the right field line. Mt. Greylock's coach adjusted her rightfielder and had her hug the line. The next pitch I hit a line drive over the second baseman's head into a huge gap in right-center field where if the rightfielder had held her original position, she may have made the catch or at least would have held me to a single. It was a lucky break."

Later in the inning, Nancy Pote and Leanne Tarantino drove in runs on separate sacrifice flies making it 5-0.

Mt. Greylock responded with one run in the bottom of the third, and then Wilmington added a run in the top of the fifth as Ouellette doubled and then came home later in the inning on a sacrifice fly by Carrie Tarantino making it 6-1.

In the home half of the fifth, Mt. Greylock had a tremendous chance to crawl back in the game, but the star of the game, Ouellette nullified those chances. Not only did she have two extra base hits and the pair of RBI but she made an outstanding catch as Mt. Greylock had runners at first and second.

"The catch I made occurred later in the game, and Mt. Greylock had (runners at first and second)," she said. "It was a shot to my right, and I remember earlier in the season I had actually flubbed a similar line drive that I should have caught cleanly. So I was thinking to myself, don't screw this one up. Thankfully I did catch this one cleanly and immediately turned and threw to second base hoping to catch the runner in a double play. Unfortunately the runner made it back in time before the throw."

The score remained the same until the bottom of the seventh when the nerves clearly settled in. Mt. Greylock's first four batters reached base on a walk, RBI double, an error and a single and suddenly it was a 6-3 game with two runners on and no outs.

"I do remember getting a little frustrated along with Adrienne during that last inning," said Carrie Tarantino. "I went out just to chat with her. When she got frustrated she would pitch a little harder and the ball would tend to sail up. I think this only happened during that last inning. Before that she was untouchable. We just joked on the mound. I did not say anything too brilliant, just laughed that the umpire was making a little tough on us. We had a couple of errors I believe that inning so that added to the frustration level. We may have all been a little nervous."

After the fourth batter reached base, Lyman took a trip to the mound to try to settle the nerves. It clearly worked as Fay retired the next three batters.

"If I remember correctly, Mt. Greylock made a comeback in the seventh inning," said Ouellette. "I believe they may have scored a run and had one or two runners on base. I can't remember for sure, but I believe Adrienne may have struck out one or two batters, and the last out was a little pop-out to Jacqui Holloway, the first baseman. It was pure relief when Jacqui made that catch. We worked very hard that season together as a team, and it just felt like all our preparations and hard work truly paid off."

Holloway caught the pop up and the entire WHS team celebrated on the infield dirt in pure joy. The co-captains enjoyed the moment knowing they had a huge part to the title, as did the coaching staff, as did the entire roster including the Tarantino sisters.

"I was so happy when we won," said Carrie. "It was a culmination of a fantastic and fun season. I loved the girls we played with. We had a great group of seniors and a lot of underclassmen. Coach Lyman always seemed to make the right moves when it came to switching out players different innings. I think that it helped that the group of girls out there were people that genuinely loved playing the game. He wanted the best from all of us and required that. It definitely made us work harder."

Leanne Tarantino said that the title meant so much to her and the family, especially her proud father Paul who never missed a game, and still hasn't to this day. The win, the season and the ability to comeback and play and contribute meant so much to Leanne, who a year earlier didn't know if she would ever log another inning in the field ever again.

"I remember that last game, knowing we had graduation that next day," she said. "It was the best weekend ever. The first play was a grounder to me and I got it and threw it to first getting the girl out. I had tried that play a few times and I constantly missed it. This was the first time I did it right. I don't know that I was ever scared that we would lose. We had Adrienne on the mound and if anyone was going to get us through that game, it was her."

The last 20 years

Since that day, the day the team won its first ever state title, the core of that team returned the following year to win its second straight state championship with a dramatic win over the same Mount Greylock team. Ten years after that, both teams were inducted into the school's Athletic Hall of Fame and today six individuals from that team - Lyman, Townsend, Fay, Harris, Pote and Gillis have all been inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Many of those players are now married, with their own children and some still reside in Wilmington and some do not. Ouellette went on from WHS and play field hockey and softball at Bates College in Maine. She currently is married with two children, resides in Marblehead and works in Cambridge at an Oncology Biotech company. Both the Tarantino twins graduated from UMass-Dartmouth. Carrie is living in Clinton, Mass with her husband and two children and Leanne lives in Leominster, Mass with her husband and two children. The two of them work together and also still play adult softball together.

"I remember a few years ago going to the Hall of Fame ceremony in Wilmington," recalled Leanne. "We all had different last names, some of us had kids, but our team unity was still there. It was so wonderful to see everyone and reminisce about that season. It's funny to look back and how much fun we had. That team was always smiling and I will always remember our 'three up, three down' cheer! That last game was so sad due to it being over, but what a run. It's hard to believe that it has been twenty years - it seriously feels like yesterday."

For Lyman things have changed as well. He was 39 years old and soon to be 40 when the team won in 1992. He would stay at WHS to win another title the following year before leaving after the 2001 season to take the same position at Bishop Fenwick. He has well over 300 wins in his softball career, and two of them stick out more than the others. But the one on June 12th, 1993 clearly ranks No. 1.

"That was a great time," he recalled. "I think about those kids and I have the pictures and trophies and stuff in my house and I can't believe it's been twenty years. It really does seem like yesterday. The memories you have is what we all play for. It's funny because Lindsay Currier's daughter has signed up for our softball camp and that's just a big wow. But those years were just such a great time. We had a special group of kids. We also had a special group of coaches as Jake and Maureen were so important with those titles. They were both outstanding coaches and deserve so much credit. When you surround yourself with good people, with good kids who work hard, who believe in themselves and each other, good things will happen."

Indeed they will - the 1992 Division 2 State Champion Wildcat Softball team is a great example of that, even 20 years later.

Every season for a JV team is something different. Because of the nature of the team, there are always girls coming and going from the team, leaving it in a constant state of flux. With each new set of players comes a whole new variety of difficulties to deal with and problems to overcome.

The main problem that JV girls' lacrosse coach Dan Merry was faced with was this: How can you have a lacrosse team without a goalie?

Despite a large turnout for the team, Merry was presented with the fact that none of the girls had any experience or desire to play goalie, leaving a crucial hole in the team wide open.

"The goalie situation was the biggest challenge of the season. Goal-tending in lacrosse is the worst in any sport. It's pretty thankless," Merry said.

Faced with this gaping problem at the center of the team, Merry was forced to improvise. He began rotating girls in and out of the goalie position, making sure that everyone took turns in the net. While the amateur players were often at a loss against the shots from the opposing team, Merry believed that the players did improve and the nature of the problem helped them grow together as a team.

"The girls understood it. They didn't get down on each other," Merry said.

To further assist in their collaborative spirit and make sure that the practices were enjoyable as well as informative, Merry drew upon knowledge gleaned from his professional life.

"If you keep the practices fun, the kids will tune in. I'm a gym teacher, so I have all these games in the back of my head," Merry explained.

He strove to make sure that there was a wide variety of activities and games that would entertain the girls, as well as impart important lessons about the nature of the game.

"As long as I do that, I can keep their attention for when it's time to do drills," Merry explained.

Merry had nothing but positive things to say about the young women who formed his squad.

"They were a very coachable group of girls," he said. While there were some difficulties in getting the freshman to adapt to the nature of the game, Merry found that with time, they were able to fully grasp the basics and learn the particulars of lacrosse.

"The hardest thing to adjust to is what you're not allowed to do defensively. We had some girls who were former hockey players, and there's a natural aggression to these girls. And that's a good thing usually," Merry said.

Merry was in as much of a period of transition as the rest of his players. This was his first time coaching a lacrosse team, having been recommended for the position by a group of girls who had played for him on the JV hockey team. Merry threw himself into the deep end to learn the game as best as possible so that he could be an educated resource in helping the girls improve their game.

But both he and the girls were confronted with the fact that lacrosse referees have a much smaller threshold for what they will and will not allow to occur on the field.

"They will blow the whistle for literally anything," a rueful Merry said.

Even with these obstacles facing the team, Merry and the athletes persevered and pushed themselves to continue improving, practice by practice and game by game.

"We made huge strides from the first game to the last," said Merry.

This spirit would not abate even at the close of the season. Heading into the final game with a record of 4-5, Merry was astounded to watch the girls push themselves harder than they ever had before, playing their hearts out so that they could go out on a victory.

"What I like to see is what I saw: a progression of attitude from first game to last."

Seeing the perseverance of his team has left Merry with positive feelings for the entirety of the high school's lacrosse program. With more girls signing up to play than he could have imagined, Merry found himself having a large surplus of players on the sidelines, vying for the chance to play.

Merry hopes that in the future enough freshman teams will exist so that it will be feasible for Tewksbury to staff and field a team. But for now, he is able to find a positive even in the abundance of players.

"The only complaint I had was, from girls asking for more playing time. But as a coach, that's what you want to hear," said Merry.

The 2013 JV girls' lacrosse team was made up by Meredith Cahill, Ariana Calouro, Delaney Chisholm, Marissa Conlin, Courtney Donovan, Jaime Fowler, June Garcia, Jocelyn Joyce, Brooke Lavoie, Brianna Losos, Ashley Maiuri, Bethanie Murphy, Karlene Noesi, Carlye Slavin, Shannon Smith, Deirdre Somerville, Jacqueline Taylor and Nicole Wright.

Freshmen Softball

For Freshmen Softball Coach Eric Matranga, every season is a fresh start.

This is to be expected when you are the coach of a freshman team. While the JV and Varsity programs will repeat players from year to year, the freshmen program, by definition, is completely overhauled with each new year.

Looking back over the season, Matranga speaks with true enthusiasm for the team that took shape under her command.

"Some years you get girls who are a little slower, but that wasn't the case here," Matranga said. "They all had a basic understanding of their positions, and knew to ask questions about what they didn't know."

It was a pleasant surprise for Matranga, who is well versed in the growing pains that a new team can undergo as the season progresses.

"It can be difficult in general to try and teach a large group of girls," Matranga said.

For Matranga, the real work comes from the practices, where she attempts to drill new skills and plays into the athletes, making sure that every player is engaged and working towards improving themselves. The rigors of routine can become taxing after a while, and Matranga tries to stay on top of the girls' emotional standing, so that she is aware of if and when their attention and patience may begin to waver.

To counteract that, Matranga tries to keep the practices fluid, taking care to move the players around the field and into different areas, so that they are able to remain alert and in-tune with the team. Still, it is important for the girls to understand the sort of patience and diligence that is needed to truly excel in the game.

"I think commitment is the big thing that they learn on the freshmen level," Matranga explained.

While the freshman team finished with a very strong record of 11-5, Matranga does not view the success or failure of her team as being in relation to such black and white statistics. It is in the development and growth of the athletes that truly signal whether or not a season has been successful.

"It's really in the steady improvement over the course of the season that is a mark of success," Matranga said.

As an example, Matranga cited how the team gradually built from only getting a few hits per game, to by the end of the season being able to hit and get on base with regularity.

It is knowing that her team has truly grasped the fundamental rhythms of the game, both physically and mentally, that allows Matranga to feel that she has accomplished her goals for the season.

"I think the most important thing is fielding and defense. Knowing the dynamics of the game is so important," Matranga said.

By her own description, she could not have asked for the team honed their mental and physical game to become a threat to the opposition from every direction.

"When we start playing well, it becomes contagious," Bellistri said.

Bellistri stressed the importance of daily routine and conditioning in the development of a baseball team's skills. Both the mental and physical aspects of the game have their own problems to adapt to, which makes practice and training all the more important.

But a coach cannot do that on their own. A baseball team's success has to be derived from what the players are willing to put forth both on and off the field.

As Bellistri said, "You can't teach intensity."

He views the JV program as the place for players to build up the necessary skills to compete on a varsity level. In that respect, he considers a crucial part of his job is to be a voice of positive reinforcement that reassures the players and guides them towards greater ability. But again, he placed the responsibility for that player-growth into the hands of the players themselves.

"We can point them in the right direction, but it's up to them to actually go there," Bellistri said.

Because of this, Bellistri does not believe that the success or failure of a JV team is reliant on a wins and losses statistics sheet. For Bellistri, the true success of the team is visible in the gradual progressions that the players make all throughout a season. It is the actual journey towards skills that matters the most.

"It all about the little things that they do right and continue to do right," said Bellistri.

As Bellistri points out, the JV system does not feature any play-offs or tournaments that will reward the players' efforts with titles and trophies. Any and all ambitions have to stem from the inward pride of the athletes, and the drive to improve and advance within the program.

In this regard, Bellistri had nothing but praise for the system in place at the Tewksbury High school.

"One of the best things about Redman baseball is the cohesiveness on all levels," Bellistri said.

As Bellistri explained, he is in constant communication with the other coaches associated with the program, discussing the evolution going on at every stage of the program and the athletes who are driving that forward momentum.

For himself, Bellistri is incredibly impressed with a number of players who worked with him. He singled out freshman pitcher Jack Pheriault, who Bellistri described as the single most consistent player on the team, making a high school that has blazed him into his coach's memory.

Also singled out for praise was sophomore Jimmy Doran, whom Bellistri described as a "Jack of all Trades" and as the most reliable reliever that he had on the bench.

Bellistri also named junior Ron Mallach as being particularly deserving of note.

"It's not always easy to be a junior on a JV team. He accepted his role and worked hard, leading by example for all the other kids," Bellistri said.

Finally, Bellistri described sophomore Cameron Gahagan as being "as good a guy as any coach could want."

But Bellistri was quick to point out that the entire group of players had come together to be a whole and complete team. Just as the game of baseball requires knowledge and application of a hundred different little skills, so too does a team demand something from each and every player.

CITATION GIVING
PETITION FOR APPOINTMENT OF
GUARDIAN FOR
INCAPACITATED
PERSON PURSUANT
TO G.L. c 190B,
§5-304

In the matter of:
Chantry Gngong
Of: Tewksbury, MA
RESPONDENT Alleged
Incapacitated Person

To the named Respondent and all other interested persons, a petition has been filed by Tewksbury State Hospital of Tewksbury, MA in the above captioned matter alleging that Chantry Gngong is in need of a Guardian and requesting that Kristen Lasker of Cambridge, MA; (or some other suitable person) be appointed as Guardian to serve Without Surety on the bond.

The petition asks the court to determine that the Respondent is incapacitated, that the appointment of a Guardian is necessary, and that the proposed Guardian is appropriate. The petition is on file with this court and may contain a request for certain specific authority.

You have a right to object to this proceeding. If you wish to do so, you or your attorney must file a written appearance at this court on or before 10:00 AM on the return date of 07/11/2013. This day is NOT a hearing date, but a deadline date by which you have to file the written appearance if you object to the petition. If you fail to file the written appearance by the return date, action may be taken in this matter without further notice to you. In addition to filing the written appearance, you or your attorney must file a written affidavit stating the specific facts and grounds of your objection within 30 days after the return date.

IMPORTANT NOTICE
The outcome of this proceeding may limit or completely take away the above-named person's right to make decisions about personal affairs or financial affairs or both. The above-named person has the right to ask for a lawyer. Anyone may make this request on behalf of the above-named person. If the above-named person cannot afford a lawyer, one may be appointed at State expense.

Tewksbury Youth Soccer weekend wrap-up

GU10-4

Tewksbury 2,
Wilmington 0

The Tewksbury U10-4 youth travel soccer team squared off against Wilmington in a mid-week make-up game won by Tewksbury 2-0. Emma Fleming got her team on the board quickly by one-touching a pass from Klara Holden past a Wilmington defender and rifling a shot by the Wilmington goalie.

The score stayed 1-0 for most of the game despite Tewksbury mounting numerous attacks on the Wilmington goal. Caitlyn Finnegan, Alex Fowler, Hannah Keane and Marykate Callinan all displayed Tewksbury's much improved passing attack and ball-control offense which helped produce many scoring opportunities.

Tewksbury finally got the insurance goal they were looking for when Hayley Taber slipped past the Wilmington defense and drilled a shot into the back of the net providing her team with some much needed breathing room. Ask the Tewksbury defense and goaltender if that second goal was needed and they would tell you that one goal was enough because they confidently kept Wilmington's offense at bay the entire game.

The defensive pairing of Madison Robillard and Megan Boudreau as well as Jade Owirka, Emma Fleming and Hannah Keane worked flawlessly together, continually stepping up at the right moments to keep the ball down Wilmington's end of the field while also thwarting any of Wilmington's odd man attacks with their excellent timing. Michelle Hinkle was again fantastic in net for Tewksbury taking charge whenever Wilmington applied any pressure and making key saves late in the game to preserve the win.

Tewksbury 6, Wakefield 1

Wakefield came to Frasca field for a makeup game Wednesday night and had a win on their mind as they needed the points to advance to the MYSL's Commissioners Cup. Tewksbury wanted the win for sole possession of first place which would position them as the top seed in the Commissioner's cup; a very desirable place to be at the start of the playoffs.

The Redmen would not disappoint and came out with an early goal. Jess Cacciola made a great pass to Kayla Devlin who found the back of the net to get the scoring started. Shortly thereafter, Devlin would pass it off to Emily Sessa who sailed one over the Warriors goalie to give the locals a two goal lead. Wakefield would soon answer on a corner kick. The Warriors placed the ball perfectly in the goal box in front of the Redmen goalie Lindsay Harris and a Warrior tapped it in to get them on the board. The defensive group, which is anchored by Rachel Sessa, was finally back intact for the first time in four weeks. Rachel Sessa, Kelly Fortier, Sam Surowiec, and Victoria Mirabito all played well in front of Harris. Surowiec contributed on the next goal when she poked the ball away from a Wakefield forward and passed the ball up to a streaking Emily Sessa. Emily did the rest by avoiding the Warrior's pressure and she sailed her second goal over the keeper's head. Emily put on a foot work and dribbling drill the entire game weaving around the Wakefield mids and defenders.

With her eyes always looking for the open player she would find Sam Mercurio who earned her first goal of the season. Mercurio took the pass from Emily and put a nice move on a Warrior defender and beat the goalie for the first goal of the second half to bring the score to 4-1.

The Redmen midfielders continued to frustrate the Warriors attack. Andrea DiCiccio, Mercurio, Allison Piricini, Izzy Picher, and Maddy Wescott all worked hard on both sides of the ball. Picher would be rewarded for her hard work when she scored on an unassisted goal to give the Redmen a four-goal lead. The forwards were missing Maggie Penta who was not available to play and in the second half Cacciola sat out with an injury but they continued their onslaught of shots on Wakefield's aggressive keeper.

Stephanie Graffeo had several well placed passes to her teammates while Kayla Makooi also scored her first of the season on a great pass from Emily Sessa. Makooi received the ball on the left side and took a great curving shot that sailed over the keepers outstretched arms to give the Redmen a commanding 6-1 lead. Harris was tested a few times in the second half but had herself well positioned to earn a second half shutout.

The team finished with a record of 8-0-1; only allowing four goals all season while scoring an impressive 34 goals. They will meet up with Chelmsford on Saturday in the first round of Commissioner's Cup. This is a single elimination tournament so the team hopes to keep their undefeated season alive throughout the playoffs.

The Tewksbury Youth Girls Softball Senior League Crystal Convenience Athletics finished 12-0 during the regular season.

Under 15A Lax team plays its best

The Tewksbury BU15A youth lacrosse team played its best two games of the season during the Patriot Cup Tournament on June 16th at the Livingston St. fields, splitting two games.

In the first game, Tewksbury was defeated by Arlington 16-10. Scoring the most goals that they have all year, Tewksbury remained competitive throughout, but could not catch Arlington. Each time they cut the lead, Arlington would pull away again. Kyle Spiller played net in this first game of the tournament, backed up by his solid defensive trio of Matty McLaughlin, Kevin Cooke, and JP Mooney, and Nick Georgopoulos rotating in for support.

The offense for Tewksbury came from: Tyler Harvey (4), Ryan Flynn (2), Nick Muise (1), Ryan Sheehan (1), Nick Diminico (1), and Brandon Sjostedt (1). The ten goals were assisted by: David Scarpa, Kevin Carta, Drew Fletcher, Brandon Winn, Matt Merrick, Jared Ward, Jacob Cofer, and David Pesantes. Despite the loss, the team showed a lot of pride and determination to end the season on a high note, being very competitive against this solid opponent.

Tewksbury rebounded in the second game to defeat North Middlesex 14-3. Being the last game in the league for the eighth graders before they move onto the High School level, the team was determined to finish their time in Tewksbury Youth Lacrosse with positive memories. They came out on fire and never looked back. Goalie Nick Georgopoulos was unbeatable early, and his defense (Matty McLaughlin, JP Mooney, and Kevin Cooke) made anyone coming near the net to think twice about doing it again.

The offense was unstoppable and tallied up a season high 14 goals. It looked like the season's coaching and practice drills gelled at the final hour as they made crisp pass after pass, and set up one scoring chance after another. Scoring included: Tyler Harvey (3), Ryan Sheehan (3) Brandon Sjostedt (2), Ryan Flynn (2), David Pesantes (1), Kyle Spiller (1), Matt Merrick (1), and JP Mooney (1) running the length of the field from his defensive position putting in the final goal for the season.

Helping to dominate the play were: Kevin Carta, Jacob Cofer, Jared Ward, Drew Fletcher, Brandon Winn, and David Scarpa.

Tewksbury's Appleby leads Reading tennis for half century

By PAUL FEELY

After 50 years of coaching tennis at Reading High, Bruce Appleby decided this season was game, set and match as far as his career was concerned.

"It's been a great 50 years," said Appleby, a Tewksbury resident. "I have wonderful memories and friendships."

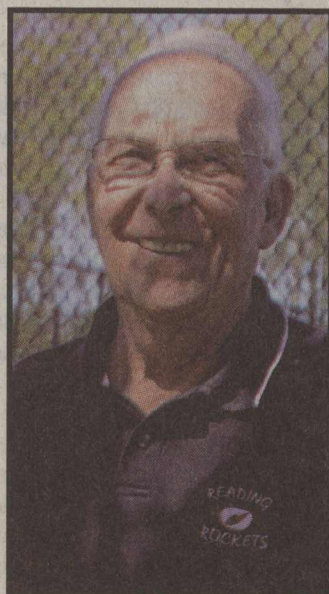

Appleby recently took some time to reflect on his years heading up the Rocket boys tennis program, the only program he has ever coached for.

"I have only coached Boys

Tennis at RMHS and I started in 1963/64," said Appleby. "I started playing tennis when I went to summer camp a long time ago. I then played for Watertown High and my freshman year at Bowdoin College. When I joined Reading in September of 1963, there was an opening for a tennis coach and I applied and got the job. I have been there ever since."

Appleby still finds time to play tennis himself.

"I enjoy playing tennis myself and only play doubles now since I have had two hip replacements," said Appleby. "I have been playing in the North Shore Men's League for over 30 years now on a Winchester Team. I started out on the B1 level and then our team got bumped up to the B level after winning too many titles as the Winchester Whites. After winning in the B level we got moved to the A1 level. I played at #5 since we had so many good, outstanding players.

"We won the title in 2000, 2003, and 2004. The team got bumped up to the A level and I dropped down to the B level where I now play for the Winchester Blues and we won the title a couple of years ago. We have a good team with former Reading High players, Matt Williams and Mike Walsh as the stars of the team. I've also played 3.5 USTA tennis and been to the Nationals three times; once in Tuscon, once in Orlando and once in Palms Springs. These teams only play doubles.

"It was great winning the New England Championships. In 1994, my partner and I were ranked #1 in USTA 3.5 Doubles. Age is catching up with me but I still play in the Reading Open. It's great fun and it helps support RMHS Tennis. I've won the B level Doubles three times but lately my high school kids enjoy beating me. We'll try again this year. It's no secret that what is so wonderful about tennis is that it is a sport for a lifetime. You can play at any age."

Appleby has enjoyed success over the years, but it isn't all about wins and losses for the longtime coach.

"I don't know my record over the years since I got rid of a lot of files when I retired from teaching in 2001," said Appleby. "However, over the past 14 years, our record is 206 and 57, not counting tournament victories. This averages out at 14.7 wins and only 4 losses per year."

"We became a league power in the year 2000. That year we made it to the Division I North Finals. In 2004, we made it to the Division I North Finals again. In between, in 2001 and 2002, we won a couple of Middlesex League titles. Then in 2012, we made it to the Division II North Finals. This year we lost in the Quarterfinals. We have not won any State titles.

Appleby said he has seen many good players come through the ranks at Reading.

"We have had a great many outstanding players and teams over the years," said Appleby. "It's not fair to single out any in particular but here are some thoughts I have about the past 50 years."

"Tennis has certainly changed over the past 50 years. When I first started, there was no girls team, Reading had only three courts and I had to drive the tennis team to away matches (and I could only take the 7 starters in my Station Wagon). In fact, in the beginning, I actually had to start by teaching some of the kids how to hold a racket.

"Also, we had to contend with league powers like Lexington, Winchester, Belmont, and Concord. But after that, things only improved. Our fortunes changed when players like John Lyons of Wilson Products fame and Mike LaPierre, now at Bass River, gave Reading strong #1 singles players."

"Man of Steel" great entertainment

by Paul Feely

BRITISH ACTOR HENRY CAVILL takes the reigns as the iconic American superhero Superman in "Man of Steel", the latest installment of the Superman series.

"MAN OF STEEL"
GRADE: ****

"Man of Steel" should give DC Comics a much-needed boost as it desperately tries to keep pace with rival Marvel at the box office. Superman's latest revamp, courtesy of "300" director Zack Snyder, helps wash away memories of "Green Lantern" in 2011.

Though Superman's faster than a speeding bullet, "Man of Steel" lags behind Christopher Nolan's Batman trilogy, Joss Whedon's "The Avengers" (2012) and several others (Jon Favreau's "Iron Man" and Tim Burton's "Batman" come to mind) among superhero stories on the big screen.

Superman first appeared in the pages of Action Comics in 1938, so even those who have never touched a comic book likely know Superman's origin by now. Kal-El, the last son of the dying planet Krypton, is shipped off to Earth where his spaceship crashes near the Kansas farm of Jonathan and Martha Kent.

(Kevin Costner and Diane Lane). The Kents name the boy Clark and raise him as their own, concerned about his powerful abilities but encouraged by his behavior.

When Clark reaches adulthood, he dons the cape and costume of Superman, always striving to protect the citizens of his adopted home-world.

British actor Henry Cavill takes the reigns as the iconic American superhero. "Man of Steel" steers away from familiar territory, focusing more on Superman's Kryptonian roots.

A nomadic Clark Kent (Cavill) learns about his alien ancestry and discovers an avatar of his father (Russell Crowe as Jor-El) while working on a military project. Daily Planet reporter Lois Lane (Amy Adams) is along for the ride, but exiled Kryptonian soldier General Zod (Michael Shannon) and his violent cohorts are planning a full-blown attack on Earth.

Snyder and his filmmaking team present

Superman's origin in periodic flashbacks, which break the flow but protect the audience from unnecessary backstory. Fans of "Superman" (1978) and "Superman II" (1980) will spot some plot similarities in "Man of Steel," though visual effects have improved by leaps and bounds since Christopher Reeve flew in red and blue. In fact, the effects are stunning and finally offer filmmakers a chance to see Superman's powers in all their glory.

Cavill holds his own in a high-profile role, backed capably by veteran actors Costner, Crowe, Lane and Laurence Fishburne (as Daily Planet editor Perry White). Adams portrays Lois Lane with just the right balance of gumption and grit. Unfortunately, the chemistry with Cavill is less engaging.

Crowe is terrific as Jor-El, playing the part of a warrior-scientist hybrid.

Adams gives Lois Lane a depth that she lacked in previous outings because, again, she's treated as a real character, rather than a comic-book figure.

Snyder's "Man of Steel" grabs you viscerally, even while delivering emotionally. It could prove to be the best big movie of the summer.

"THE INTERNSHIP"
GRADE: **

You've got to give Vince Vaughn and Owen Wilson a lot of credit for not routinely joining forces for lame buddy comedies after the massive success of "Wedding Crashers," by far the biggest hit of their careers.

"Wedding Crashers" was fresh, daring and became the measuring stick of comedy. None really captured that dynamic again until "The Wolfpack" descended on Vegas and made "The Hangover."

And now Vaughn and Wilson reunite for "The Internship," a comedy that while not as original or groundbreaking as their earlier effort, gets the most important aspect of the genre correct - it keeps you laughing consistently.

"The Internship" doesn't signal the start of a new buddy comedy Golden Age, but you really can't go wrong with Vaughn and Wilson's reunion and if you're in the mood for a lighthearted film this is a pleasant crowd-pleaser.

Summer Concert series begins June 28

The Horn Pond Summer Concert series will kick off on Friday, June 28. Come down to Ice House Park at Horn Pond in Woburn and enjoy a night under the stars.

OPEN FOR BUSINESS (WAKEFIELD)

"The Wakefield Municipal Gas & Light Department (WMGLD) opened for business at its new facility at 480 North Avenue ...," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The department will operate during regular business hours, Monday through Wednesday 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Thursday 7:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., and Friday 7:30 a.m. to 1:00 p.m."

"We are excited to be moving into our new home," WMGLD General Manager Pete Dion said. "The electric, gas and business divisions will be moving their equipment and offices into the new facility throughout the day... We look forward to welcoming our customers..."

"Customers can continue to pay their WMGLD bill at the drop-off box at the 9 Albion Street office for the next several days. Payments can also be made online at www.wmgld.com. Customers with service-related issues can meet with business representatives at the 480 North Avenue location."

ON THE ROAD (READING)

"An extensive, town-wide road repaving effort is underway and residents can expect to see more work being done throughout the summer," notes the Reading edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Over the next few weeks, roads including Hartshorn Ave, Howard St., Longfellow Road, Overlook Road, Springvale Road and the neighborhood surrounding Tower Road will be repaved, and once school gets out for the summer Oakland Road near the high school will be redone as well.

"These roads, along with more than a dozen others that have already been completed, are a part of a $1.5 million project that will run through the end of the summer, according to civil engineer Chris Cole.

"The current contract we have is valued at about $1.5 million with Lazaro Paving," Cole said. "We started this project on May 13 and they will take up to a year to complete and cost $800,000, which will be paid by The Department of Transportation."

"A full schedule of road repairs can be found on the Engineering Department's page on the town website."

AT THE CORNER OF GLEN AND MIDDLESEX (WILMINGTON)

"The Glen Road/Middlesex Avenue Intersection Improvement Project continues to be a difficult issue for Wilmington to resolve, as well as a high focus issue, says Town Manager Jeff Hull," notes the Wilmington "Town Crier."

"At the Board of Selectmen meeting, Hull read a letter in which he stated that intersection was 'The town's number one priority traffic improvement project.'

"The area, which has a statistically significantly high rate of car accidents as compared to other areas of Massachusetts Department of Transportation's Region Four - nearly double - has long been an area of concern and a priority for quite a while, but progress has been slow."

"At the Board of Selectmen meeting, Hull announced a timeframe for completion of the project."

"According to Hull, the project aims to 'improve safety at the intersection by installing geometric improvements and a fully signalized intersection at the Middlesex Avenue intersection with both Glen Rd. and Wildwood Street." Hull also said that the project 'will complete the Town's sidewalk network in this area by the connection of the Glen Road sidewalk with the Middlesex Ave. sidewalk in an area that is in the vicinity of the Town's Library, Common and High School.'

"The changes that will correct this issue are not a short-term fix, but something that will take up to a year to complete and cost $800,000, which will be paid by The Department of Transportation."

"The time frame for beginning this project is a lengthy one, as the Massachusetts Department of Transportation has delayed three years in approving the 75 percent design plan. Wilmington committed to this project back in 2005 by hiring the engineering firm Green International to conduct preliminary engineering studies on the final design. This plan, which has 'essentially' finally been completed, will be submitted to the state in June."

"Assuming that the plan, and the 100 percent plan, are both approved by the Department of Transportation the project will go to bid and construction and likely begin in fiscal year 2015..."

"About the Towns" covers recent events in the 10-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper or look on line for up-to-date information about your city or town."

We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About the Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867 or to schooltowns@comcast.net.

MIDDLESEX EAST WEEKLY TRIVIA:

Name the last NHL team to win the President's Trophy and the Stanley Cup in the same season.

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

SENIOR DISTANCE RUNNER CAROLINE MCBRIDE (NORTH READING, MASS.)

and sophomore sprinter Maria Curit (Biddeford, Maine/Biddeford) leads a list of seven All-East Region performers from the Stonehill women's track and field team the United States Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association (USTFCCCA) announced this week. The USTFCCCA recognizes the top five performers in individual events and the top three teams in relay events for the All-Region Teams.

McBride and Curit led the Skyhawks with two East Region honors each. McBride claimed East Region honors in the 5,000-meter and 10,000-meter events, while Curit earned East Region recognition for the 400-meter dash and the long jump event.

With two honors during the outdoor season, McBride finishes her Stonehill tenure with nine USTFCCCA East Region honors between her indoor and outdoor seasons. Curit's two selections give her eight total honors in just two years with the Skyhawks.

Senior Kristen Veit

(Easthampton, Mass./Holyoke Catholic) also earned East Region recognition for her performance in the 3,000-meter steeplechase event. It is the third consecutive outdoor season and fifth time overall that she has earned All-Region honors.

Junior Meghan Olin (Goshen, N.Y./Goshen) takes home her fourth All-Region honor in the pole vault event. The Skyhawks' junior set a new school-record in the pole vault earlier this spring at the Bridgewater State Invitational when she cleared 10-00.00.

Junior Chelsea Bishop (Suffield, Conn./Suffield) (3rd East Region honor), sophomore Emily Anderson (Manchester, Conn./Manchester) (2nd East Region honor), and freshman Trisha Pierson (East Hanover, N.J./Hanover Park) (1st East Region honor) join McBride, Curit, Veit, and Bishop on the East Region squad.

Salem State, trailing by four in the top of the ninth, rallied for two runs, but left the tying runs on base as the #6 seed St. Joseph's Monks held on for a 7-5 victory over the #7 seed Vikings in an elimination game at the NCAA New England Regional. Salem State ends their season with a 25-15 record.

Holding a slim 4-3 entering the eighth inning, the Monks scored three runs in the inning, highlighted by a Brandon Chase (Naples, ME) three-run inside-the-park home run to open up what had been a tightly contested game.

Freshman Sean Buckland (3-2) started on the mound for the Vikings, and kept Salem State within striking distance before being replaced by Andrew Guido (Peabody, Mass.) with one out in the eighth inning. Following a single and intentional walk to Mike Pratt (Dartmouth, Mass.), Chase delivered a shot into the left center gap that went all the way to the fence. Chase circled the bases, to score three runs to give St. Joseph's a 7-3 lead heading into the ninth.

The Vikings came right back as STEVE BUITKUS (READING, MASS.) and Kevin Salines (Melrose, Mass.) both singled with one out. A fielder's choice put runners on the corners, and Salem State took advantage of a two-out error by the shortstop to score a run as Brett Cahill (Gloucester, MA) safely reached first. Richard Fecteau (Newbury, MA) followed with a double to left to score another run, and the Vikings trailed just 7-5 with runners on second and third. However, reliever Alex Valenti (Lawrence, Mass.) ended the threat with a comebacker to the mound to secure the victory.

Buitkus, Salines, and Burgess all had multiple hits for the Vikings, who were appearing in their fourth NCAA Regional.

Need some help with the trivia question? It's not Boston.

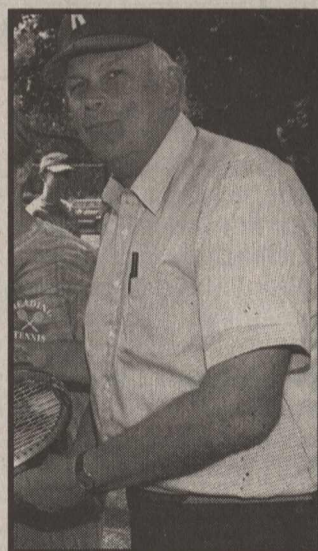

CALLIE MURPHY (WOBURN, MA), a junior at Endicott College was once again named to the Commonwealth Coast Conference team for Women's Lacrosse. This is Callie's second consecutive appearance. Last year she was awarded honorable mention. This year she earned 2nd team on the All-CCC team. Callie placed third in team goals with 42, third in assists with 25 for a total of 67 points. She was also awarded athlete of the week during the season. Callie is a nursing major at Endicott College.

ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: Detroit (2007-08).

Last week due to a production error we did not include the answer to the trivia question. What Major League Baseball player listed below amassed at least 500 hits with four different teams?

Answer to last WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: Rusty Staub.

Appleby from S-1

"The next wave came with All Scholastics Mark Erelli, a noted folk singer, and Jamie Cerretani, a tennis professional on the circuit. Greg Luongo, a pro at Bass River whom many in Reading know, also played for us during this time.

"When 2000 came around, Reading was established as a power in the league," said Appleby. "We have had great, competitive matches with Lexington, Winchester and Burlington in the past 15 years and will probably continue to do so. We have had outstanding teams. But more importantly, we continue to have great kids on the team and the most supportive parents around.

Appleby said the program has enjoyed a lot of support from parents and the community over his tenure.

"This is not only my opinion but also that of the coaches in the league," said Appleby. "They are jealous of our support. We have had many League All-Stars over the years: too many to name but I should mention that Alec Trianabos, Tyler Bova, Rob Devaney, and Jarid Polley from this year's team are repeat All-Stars. I guess you could say that the May 22 night match with Burlington was 'One for the Ages.' It was nicely reported in the Reading Chronicle. There was tremendous support from former players and parents as well as current players. The play of both teams was of the highest caliber. It's too bad someone had to lose but I'm glad it wasn't us. Thanks to the parents for the honor that night. And thanks to the team for the victory that made the special evening even more special."

Appleby said he couldn't have asked for a better experience coaching than the one he had in Reading.

"It's been a great 50 years," said Appleby. "It's been wonderful working with quality kids who have enjoyed playing tennis and continue to do so while realizing that it's only a game. Being a quality person is what it is all about."

Ancho Chile Marinated Chicken

Andy Varela's ancho Chile marinated chicken is perfect for the spicy food lovers in your house. This marinade comes from a range of chilies, while being tamed by onion, salt, and lemon juice. The marinade isn't too overwhelming because the chicken is marinated and not coated in a pepper crust.

Ancho chilies are dried versions of pablano peppers. Their heat is milder and has almost a sweet flavor. Other ways to use the ancho chili are to grind it into a powder as spice, or soaked in water and used whole.

Chicken is one of the most widely accepted and diverse dinner choices. Options are nearly limitless, as the mild flavor takes on everything it is mixed with. This chicken recipe is a simple way of adding another marinade and chicken dish to your culinary inventory.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Begin by grilling the chilies and onion on a grill or stovetop until they get a small char.
2. Slice the chicken breasts into thin strips. The thinner the better, as it will lessen cook time.
3. Remove the stems from the chilies and cut the chilies in half. Give the onion a rough chop as well. Place the chilies and onions in a food processor and pulse the ingredients until they break down. Add olive oil and the juice of a whole lemon to the food processor as well.

See the video on our website
food.homenewshere.com

4. Blend these ingredients together until they are well incorporated.
5. Place the chicken in a medium bowl, and pour over the marinade. Allow this to sit overnight, or at least one hour.
6. Prepare the crust for your chicken by mixing flour, salt and blackening seasoning.

Ingredients

- 3 ancho chilies
- 1/2 sweet onion
- 1 jalapeno pepper
- 3 chicken breasts
- 3-5 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 lemon
- 1-teaspoon salt
- 2 cups flour
- 3 tablespoons blackening seasoning

Next Week: Lemon Chicken

The finale of our dinner challenge has arrived. Laurie Lufkin finishes up her Lemon Chicken, as the Yankee Chef races against the 10.00, 30-minute, 4-person meal.

Protecting hair from surf and sun

People are well aware that they need to protect their skin from the ultraviolet rays of the sun. But few may know they need to devote as much attention to protecting their hair.

In addition to exposing hair to potentially harmful UV rays, time outdoors in the sun can leave hair brittle, dull and more prone to breakage. People fail to realize that the scalp also is susceptible to sunburn and can take a beating when in the sun for many hours. If your hair is particularly thin, you may be more at risk for sun-related trauma to the scalp. Combine damage from the sun with the drying factor of chemically treated pool water or saltwater, and you have a recipe for bad hair.

There are a number of ways to protect the hair and still enjoy some fun in the sun.

* Wear a hat when out in the sun. A hat will serve as a barrier from direct sunlight. A hat will protect your face while covering your head and most of your hair. When swimming, opt for a swimming cap that will cover the hair and guard it from pool chemicals or seawater.

* Use a leave-in conditioner. Leave-in conditioners or even regular conditioners can be combed through your hair before you head to the pool or beach. The conditioner will coat the strands of hair and protect it from drying out and other sun damage.

* Rely on an SPF product. There are leave-in treatments for hair and scalp that are a conditioner and sunscreen all-in-one. But if you need something that works in a pinch, simply dilute a little standard sunscreen with water and spritz it through the hair, paying attention to the scalp and other easily burned areas, like the ears and nape of the neck. You can also mix sunscreen with a little conditioner and work it through your hair.

* Rinse your hair after swimming. Saltwater and pool water may continue to cause damage after you finish swimming. Once you're through, rinse your hair with cool, clean water to get out as much salt or chemical residue as possible. Also rinse out any sand that may have become lodged in your hair, as sand can rub against hair and cause breakage. When you have time for a shower, use an after-sun shampoo specially designed to thoroughly clean hair after it has been exposed to the sun.

* Keep hair from turning green. Few people hope to have their hair turn green after swimming in a pool. Unfortunately, such a transformation is somewhat common, particularly for those with blonde or light-colored hair. Contrary to popular belief, it is not the chlorine itself that causes hair to turn green, but rather oxidized metals in the pool water that bind to the protein in the hair shaft. Copper is the metal that produces the green tint and is often found in algacides. The chlorine added to the pool may speed up the oxidizing process but is not the actual cause of the color. Special shampoos that chelate the metal in the hair follicle can help remove the green. Also, try rinsing your hair with a mixture of clean water and baking soda after swimming.

How to create a workout that is right for you

Exercise is a great way to improve quality of life and reduce your risk of developing potentially life threatening health conditions and diseases. But men and women are often intimidated when attempting to incorporate exercise into their lives after a long layoff from working out.

Tailoring a workout that suits you can be a daunting task, especially if it's been years since you visited a gym or took a turn on a treadmill. But creating a workout routine that's right for you should be an exciting experience that marks your first step toward living a healthier, more active lifestyle.

ASSESSING YOUR CURRENT SITUATION

The process of creating a workout regimen should begin with an honest self-assessment of your current fitness levels. If exercise has not been a part of your regular routine in quite some time, chances are you have little to no idea of how fit you are. You might be in better shape than you think, or you might have more work to do in the months and years ahead than you initially thought.

To get an idea of your current fitness level, measure your pulse after walking one mile and the time it takes you to walk that mile. If your heart is racing after such a brief and stress-free exercise and it took you awhile to walk a mile, then you'll begin to get an idea of the task that's ahead of you. To gauge your muscular fitness, perform a simple task like pushups to see how many you can do at one time. The more you're capable of doing, the more fit your muscles are.

Don't push it when gauging aerobic or muscular fitness, as this initial stage is intended solely to give you a realistic idea of where you are with regard to personal fitness. In addition, it's important not to overreact during the assessment stage, as you likely know already that you have work to do. You have already taken the most difficult step, and that's deciding to make a change. Once you honestly assess your aerobic and muscular fitness, you will have a much better idea of your fitness levels.

CONSULTING YOUR PHYSICIAN

Once you have an idea of your aerobic and muscular fitness, you will be tempted to start tailoring your workout. However, it's best to visit your physician before you dive into the specifics of your new exercise regimen. A thorough examination from your physician will reveal if you have any existing conditions that could be exacerbated by certain exercises or lifestyle changes. Your doctor can tell you if any of these conditions are likely to have an adverse impact on your exercise capacity and what you can do to overcome those conditions in an effort to improve your health and quality of life.

SETTING YOUR GOALS

Once you have assessed your fitness levels and consulted your physician, it's time to set your goals. You likely did not decide to workout out of the blue, so you probably have a specific goal, such as losing weight or lowering your cholesterol, in mind. Establish these goals and build a workout that makes reaching them that much easier.

FINDING A WORKOUT YOU'LL ENJOY

A workout regimen is far more likely to be successful if it includes activities you're liable to enjoy. If you truly dread spending 30 minutes per day on the treadmill, then your workout should include a cardiovascular activity that you're more likely to embrace.

Riding a bicycle can be just as beneficial as an aerobic exercise as jogging on the treadmill. If you love cycling, then make that your daily cardiovascular exercise when the weather permits. When the weather is less cooperative, use a stationary bike indoors. If you love to dance, then you should know how great a workout dancing can be. Join a Zumba(R) class or another aerobics class that involves dancing, and your workout will seem more like fun than something you have to do. When building a workout regimen, keep in mind it's going to be most successful if it includes activities you enjoy.

Meet the "helping women help themselves" experts.

Winchester Hospital is proud to host "Women's Health Matters," a symposium designed to inform women about common health concerns and what they can do to improve their lives. Featuring a panel of women's health experts, the program will include presentations on breast health, gynecologic health, foot injuries and acupuncture. With an emphasis on wellness, prevention and early detection, the symposium will also include free screenings for osteoporosis, cholesterol and diabetes; hypnotherapy demonstrations; fitness tips; and chair massages. Participants will also be eligible for a drawing to meet New England football legend Tedy Bruschi, compliments of Shields MRI.

When: Thursday, June 27, 5:30 p.m. - 7:30 p.m.

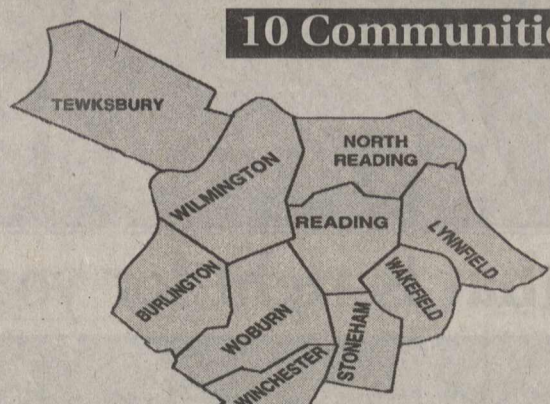

Where: Winchester Hospital Outpatient Center
200 Unicorn Park Drive, Woburn, MA

This Week's Sampler: North Reading

Brand new just steps to state forest

This week's sampler is brand new construction, now being offered at Forest Green Estates, on gorgeous acre lots in North Reading, just steps from the Harold Parker State Forest at both your front and back doors.

As you arrive, you will be pleased to call this magnificent 3000 sf colonial, as your home. Offered as a hip roof or gable style you can have all the fun that comes with personalizing new construction. A well known and experienced builder and his staff, including local Realtor Dave O'Neil at Century 21 with several decades of new construction experience can make this daunting task an exceptional and rewarding one.

The dramatic entry foyer is sure to impress all that enter.
